U. S. Motorists Will Be Held To 5 Tires a Car

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(P)—The Office of Price Administration formally announced today that motorists would be limited to five tires per car beginning next month, and at the same time disclosed that registration for gasoline ration books would start November 9 in the 31 states where gasoline is now rationed.

Every car owner in these states will be entitled, as in the rationed east, to at least enough gas to drive 2,880 miles per year—slightly less than four gallons per week. Supplemental rations will be provided for necessary purposes upon application to local boards. It previously had been disclosed that actual rationing in the 31 states would become effective November 22.

Ration Provisions. Nationwide gasoline rationing was recommended by the War Relocation Authority to save the rubber on existing tires. Henderson said issuance of ration books would be contingent on these provisions:

1. The car owner must swear he has no more than five tires.

2. He must agree to periodic inspection of his tires.

These provisions also will be extended to the east. Although in those 17 states motorists will not have to register again for gasoline books, they will be asked to supply data on the number of tires they own.

For the 31 other states Henderson outlined this procedure:

Blanks to Be Checked. Starting October 27 application blanks will be made available in filling stations and other public places.

Starting November 9 motorists will take the filled-in application blanks to local school houses, where rationing officials will check to see that the blanks are filled out properly and at the same time issue "A," or minimum, ration books.

Persons needing more gasoline for essential purposes may apply immediately for supplemental rations after they receive the "A" book.

Those working in industrial establishments employing 100 or more persons may apply for extra gasoline to a committee in that plant which would refer it to the local rationing board.

Extra Gas Books. Persons showing a need for extra gasoline to drive to work may get a "B" book, which, together with the "A" book, provides a maximum of 470 miles on occupational driving a month. (This means a little more than 31 gallons a month, since the OPA bases its figures on 15 miles to the gallon.) The "A" book contains enough gasoline to drive 240 miles per month, theoretically, including 150 miles for occupational purposes and 90 miles for necessary family driving.

An extra "C" book may be obtained.

Treasury Asks Children To Stop Saving Pennies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(P)—The Treasury announced today a 50 per cent cut in production of pennies to about 60,000,000 a month, and appealed to the public, especially children, to stop saving pennies in pig banks.

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, director of the mint, suggested that every family dig up 10 pennies and put them in circulation, which would save 1,000 tons of copper needed for war industries.

HE ASKED FOR IT—Hermann Goering, the pudgy German field marshal, recently taunted the British to accommodate him by revealing just what banks held his hidden millions in foreign lands, and how much. Yesterday the London radio beamed to Germany an itemized statement, giving exact amounts, describing nature of deposits and even furnishing street numbers of banks.

Box Score

The box score of comparative losses reported in last night's communiqués stood as follows:

Japanese

One heavy cruiser sunk, one badly damaged, one light cruiser badly damaged; four destroyers sunk and one probably sunk; one medium sized transport sunk. Total 10 ships. Also eight bombers, four fighter planes and three seaplanes shot down. Total 15 planes.

These losses, all in the Solomons, raised the enemy's ship casualties for the Solomons campaign so far to eight sunk, three probably sunk and 37 damaged, and his plane losses to 280. In addition there is the incalculable and cumulative damage of fires and explosions among shore installations.

American

One destroyer sunk. Two U. S. fighter planes lost.

These losses, all in the Solomons, raised known American ship casualties for the campaign to 10 vessels sunk, including the three heavy cruisers, Vincennes, Astoria and Quincy, loss of which was announced by the Navy Department Monday. The total of American plane losses in the Solomons has not been announced but is known to be much smaller than that of the enemy.

Enemy Given Beating at Sea, On Land, in Air

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(P)—From the tropic jungles of the Solomon Islands to the chill shores of the Aleutians, United States forces have dealt the Japanese enemy a terrific beating by land, sea and air in the last six days, it was revealed tonight.

Three Navy communiqués gave this account of American onslaughts at both ends of the far-flung Pacific battle front:

A task force of U. S. cruisers and destroyers waylaid an enemy force trying to land troops reinforcements on Guadalcanal island, in the Solomons, Sunday night and sank one 10,000-ton heavy cruiser, four destroyers and a 5,000-ton transport. One unidentified U. S. destroyer was sunk.

Navy and Marine Corps torpedo planes and dive bombers, chasing the fleeing remnants of the enemy fleet next day, badly damaged at least one more cruiser and probably sank a destroyer. Total enemy ship losses for these sea and air actions were six ships sunk, one probably sunk and one damaged.

Marine Air Action. Last week, on October 9, Marine Corps aircraft attacked two Jap light cruisers and four destroyers in the Solomons, damaged both cruisers and shot down three seaplanes. Meanwhile the enemy's seaplane base at Rabaul Bay was strafed by Navy and Marine Corps planes.

Two days later, October 11, Army, Navy and Marine Corps fighter planes intercepted a four-flight attack of 65 Jap bombers and fighters over Guadalcanal, forced them to jettison their bombs in an open field and shot down eight bombers and four Zero fighters with a loss of only two United States planes.

About the time that victory was being achieved in the air, American Marines ashore on Guadalcanal were clinching the end of their first offensive operation in several weeks.

In the face of stiff resistance from the enemy's reinforced jungle troops they had won new advance positions west of their old defense lines around the all-important United States air field on the north coast of the island. The positions were taken in two days of battling, during which the enemy suffered many casualties. The Marines were supported by Army fighter planes which strafed Jap troops and installations.

Kiska Bombard. In the Aleutians the Army's four-engine Flying Fortress and Liberator bombers showered incendiary and demolition bombs on the Jap base at Kiska Island October 8, 9 and 10.

New fires were started in the enemy's last battered Aleutian base, which has been bombed steadily for several weeks. No Jap planes took the air to repel the raiders, anti-aircraft fire was light and not very effective. Kiska was lost, although some received minor damage.

The comparative weakness of the enemy's resistance in the Aleutians clearly indicated that.

Stunt Works So Well He Never Knows It

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(P)—Kenneth Pearson, member of an RAF ground crew, today picked up his .45 revolver to demonstrate a gangster film scene to two WAAFs.

The gunman in the film had put a bullet in the revolver, spun the cylinder and then taken a five-to-one chance against death by holding the barrel against his head and pressing the trigger.

"Be sporting," the real life soldier told one of the WAAFs, handing her the revolver, "take a chance."

When the girl refused Pearson flicked the cylinder with one bullet in it and took the five-to-one chance.

There was a blinding flash. Pearson slid from his chair dead.

Large Jap Fleet Sighted Moving to South Pacific

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(P)—A Reuters dispatch from Chungking today quoted a Chinese military spokesman as saying that a Japanese fleet including four aircraft carriers and seven battleships was sighted "some time ago" steaming toward the South Pacific.

(A similar report of such a large-scale Japanese naval movement was current several days ago.)

YORKSHIRE STRIKE.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(P)—Between 230 and 300 shipyard workers went on strike today at Middlesbrough, Yorkshire, protesting that a transfer from piece work to an hourly wage scale had cut their earnings.

Pretty Victim Of Amnesia To Stay Married

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13.—(P)—Pretty Glory Weller Miller, 25, who three weeks ago told police of regaining her memory 10 months after she lost it—to find herself married to a man she couldn't remember—says she'll remain his wife.

He is Henry Miller, Hollywood photographer, whom she wed last May 1, in Las Vegas, Nev.

Mrs. Miller's story, after she awoke in a motor hotel September 22, was that her mind was a blank from the time she walked into her home in Altadena, Cal., last November 4 to find her husband, H. Pierce Weller, 50, retired Binghamton (N. Y.) editor, dead of a heart attack.

First she said she and Miller would remain together—"to see how it works out. It will be a sort of trial marriage."

Now, she adds, they have decided to make it permanent.

Government of Croatia Resigned, Tass Reports

MOSCOW, Oct. 13.—(P)—Tass reported under a Geneva dateline today that the government of Axis-dominated Croatia has resigned and that this is interpreted "as proof that Germany no longer intends to allow Italy's predominance in Croatia."

The dispatch to the Soviet news agency said a new government was installed after Ante Pavelic, Croat chief of state, had visited Hitler's headquarters last month.

It pointed out that the original Croat government was formed simultaneously with the agreement between Rome and Berlin which recognized Croatia as a sphere of Italian influence.

New Secret Society Flares Under Auspices of Goodwin

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

A new secret society flashed across the Georgia skies yesterday under the auspices of Major John E. Goodwin, Georgia's commissioner of public safety, chief of the palace guard and the personal bodyguard of Governor Talmadge during the last two years.

The name of the new order is Vigilantes, Inc., and its charter has been filed with Secretary of State John Wilson.

Attorneys for the Vigilantes are Hewlett & Dennis, law partners of Atlanta, the senior member of the firm being Justice Samuel C. Hewlett, who ascended to the bench of the supreme court of Georgia the day the charter was filed.

From his private office in the state capitol yesterday, Justice Hewlett said:

"I was in on the original drawing-up of those papers, but I retired from all law practice when I accepted this post. I know none of the details and I shall handle no further law practice until my term in the court has been completed."

The papers filed with Secretary of State Wilson described the purpose of the new organization as "patriotic, secret, social and benevolent."

No capital stock is involved or profit expected, according to the papers.

The headquarters of the organization will be in Fulton county, Georgia, "but the petitioners desire the privilege of establishing offices and transacting business in any other place, or places, within or without the state of Georgia."

In the trinity described as leaders of the organization today are Goodwin, John J. Cummings, of Seminole county, and Fred Derrick, of Rabun county. The area in the vicinity of Tybee Light is unrepresented.

Cummings, a member of the State Board of Regents under Governor Talmadge, won fame for his sale of Samson, the $5,000 accredited bull, to the state of Georgia. The state's purchase of Samson, according to Governor Talmadge's comments at the time of the sale, was to improve the percentage of the beef stock of the state.

Derrick was one of Governor Talmadge's companions on his famous visit to Havana, Cuba, a year ago, an incident that drew frequent comment in the recent gubernatorial campaign. Derrick is a member of Governor Talmadge's staff.

No one will be allowed inside the assembly room of Vigilantes, Inc., other than "white males, of sound health, good morals and high character."

No one could be found yesterday to explain in more complete detail the purpose or the reasons for the new secret organization.

Commissioner Goodwin was being protected from telephone calls

Fresh German Drive Slumps At Stalingrad

MOSCOW, Wednesday, Oct. 14.—(P)—German attacks on the Stalingrad front died down again today and the Soviet midnight communiqué said Red army troops had recaptured a street given up the previous day and pushed the Germans back slightly in one sector northwest of the battered city.

Beyond the isolated Soviet action in which the street was recaptured, the communiqué said, activity inside the rubble-strewn city again was confined to artillery after a one-day renewal of German assaults.

Action northwest of Stalingrad also appeared to have been restricted to local engagements. The communiqué said one unit of Elite Guardsmen "pressed back the Germans somewhat" in one engagement and in other sectors the Russians "continued to defend their former positions" and "carried out reconnaissance raids."

Fighting, however, continued heavily in the Mzodok area of the Caucasus and along the Black sea.

In the Mzodok area, the communiqué said, two battalions of German infantry, supported by tanks and aircraft, attacked Russian positions, but were hurled back to their original positions by fierce artillery and mortar fire after losing 300 men.

Southeast of the German-occupied Black sea base of Novorossiisk, it said, Soviet marines repelled an enemy attack and "improved their positions." In this engagement two companies of enemy infantry were said to have been wiped out.

Fighting also was renewed on the northwest front, between Moscow and Leningrad, where the Germans launched an attack but were repelled with 400 killed.

The new lull in the Stalingrad battle came after the Germans had brought up reinforcements for a new attempt to take the Volga stronghold, but failed to make any important gains.

Nazi Marshal Salts Away Big Fortune 'Just in Case'

LONDON, Oct. 13.—(INS)—His protestations to the contrary notwithstanding, Reich marshal Hermann Goering has investments to the tune of about $8,000,000 salted away in countries outside Germany as a personal refuge against the day of reckoning, the London radio told the German people today.

This recalled earlier reliable information to the effect that not only Goering but also other high-ranking members of the Nazi hierarchy have been hedging on their own predictions of a German victory by secretly putting away nest eggs of their own in foreign lands.

That this information is seeping into the ranks of the German masses and thus undermining their faith in the sincerity of Hitler's subalterns was evidenced by the fact that Goering himself felt called upon to deny publicly the story of his financial investments abroad.

In his speech in Berlin's sports palace eight days ago, the well-fed reichsmarshal protested that his patriotism was not qualified by considerations of personal profit, though he is rated one of the richest if not the richest of the German elite.

U. S. To Take Private Homes For War Workers If Needed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(P)—The government announced today it would lease privately owned homes and buildings to house war workers, requisitioning the structures and billeting the workers in them if necessary.

National Housing Administrator John B. Blandford said this step would be taken in addition to the $600,000,000 new construction program now under way because demands for war housing accommodations could not be supplied in time through new construction.

Blandford said all the new housing which could be built by June, 1943, either through public or private resources, could not possibly care for the 1,600,000 new workers expected to be drawn into war production centers before that time.

At least 650,000 workers must be cared for through existing housing, and experience has shown that only a program to convert and remodel the housing can supply enough family accommodations, he said.

Blandford said the government would offer to lease private homes which (1) could be converted into additional accommodations speedily and with a minimum use of critical materials; (2) are located in districts within reasonable transportation distance of war plants and where conversion is permissible under zoning laws.

Vacant houses and those with a large amount of unused space will be the types favored, Blandford said, adding that voluntary leasing would be pushed to the limit, but "if this does not yield a sufficient amount of necessary housing on time, we shall be forced to recommend the compulsory use of available private facilities through billeting, commandeering, requisitioning and similar devices."

Plans providing the authority to put these measures into effect, if necessary, are already being formulated, Blandford asserted.

The conversion program will be inaugurated within the next two weeks in more than 50 overcrowded war production centers through a homes use division headed by Frank Bane, and operations will

Georgia Firms Also Buying Service Stars

Not only individuals, but Georgia manufacturing firms and other large corporations—in the interest of their employees—are joining in the tremendous demand for silver service stars which The Constitution has made available to its readers.

One large firm in Georgia has ordered 500 of these stars, to be distributed among its employees who have relatives and other loved ones in the service—another ordered 300 and smaller orders from business houses have come in from all over the state.

Meanwhile, other thousands continue to order their individual symbols of pride in those near and dear to them in the armed forces. There is an almost unending procession by the Want Ad desk of The Constitution, where they may be obtained for twenty cents each (plus federal jewelry tax); each mail is packed with orders from those who prefer to get them by post—for twenty-five cents (tax included).

Voluntary Plan For Manpower Displeases FDR

Present Program Not Working Satisfactorily, President Tells Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told a press conference today that the voluntary manpower program was not working satisfactorily.

He gave no indication, however, that any immediate request might be made for legislation to put job assignments on a compulsory basis.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked whether he saw any indication that voluntary controls might have to be replaced by compulsory controls through the medium of legislation, a possibility he suggested in a fire-side chat last night.

That is the whole point, he remarked, adding that the matter had not been decided yet.

He said he had set no time limit in which voluntary efforts must produce the desired results in bringing adequate workers into industries and onto farms.

The President declined to elaborate on his statement that the voluntary system was not now operating satisfactorily, declaring that he had suggested last night a lot of things that might be done. He did not specify what things he meant.

'Purple Heart' Awarded Georgian

HEADQUARTERS ALASKA DEFENSE COMMAND, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Major General Simon T. Buckner announced the award of the Purple Heart to four officers and three men and the award of the air medal to three officers and five men, all lost in aerial action in the Aleutians.

The Purple Hearts were given the crew members of a bomber which participated for three weeks in raids against the Japanese and then was lost in a dense fog during another attack on the enemy. The bomber and crew were listed as missing in action.

Recipients of the Purple Heart included: Lieutenant John P. Wright, Rockmart, Ga., navigator; Corporal Hoyt A. Pollard, Anderson, S. C., gunner.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday gave permission for the bell to be scrapped, pointing out that "it's doing no good atop the seven-story firemen's training tower."

The bell, named for Augusta Hill, Atlanta belle who won the honor by popular ballot at a fair held to get funds for its purchase, has been silent atop the tower in West End for 11 years. It hasn't been used since the 1890's, according to Atlanta historians.

The huge bell will be lowered from the tower or tossed over the side during the next few days by salvage workers.

Mayor Hartsfield has opposed scrapping relics which cannot be replaced, especially the Texas, old engine which had a running fight with the General during the War Between the States.

"There are plenty of old bells," he said, "and that one should have been scrapped long ago."

Meanwhile, a total of 28,105 pounds of scrap was hauled to the junk yards from curbs in the Lakewood Park and Capitol View section of the city yesterday as WPA and Bottling Association trucks rolled on the second day of the newspapers' scrap drive house-to-house pick-ups.

The target for today is the East Point, College Park and Hapeville section. Residents in that area are urged to have their scrap on the curbs early so the trucks can pick it up.

The area is bounded on the north by Womack avenue, Lakewood avenue and Pegg road; on the west by Semmes avenue, Kimmeridge drive and Washington road; on the south by the county line, and on the east by the old Macon road.

Get out the scrap today if you live within that area. If you live in another section of the city, watch the papers for the map printed the day before each area is visited by pick-up trucks.

Schools Keep on Job.

While interest was centered on the pick-up truck part of the newspapers' scrap drive, the army of school children kept on working hard at filling the school yards in the competition for $1,000 prizes put up by The Constitution and Journal, sponsors of the drive in Fulton and DeKalb counties.

Murphy Junior High was justly proud of Peggy Osborne, 13, of 1257 McPherson avenue, who was credited with gathering 2,000 pounds of scrap. Peggy, a gospel singer on WATL, has been working earnestly to collect every bit of old metal.

Drive Gains Momentum.

Other schools reported more scrap coming in all the time as they sought one of the four $250 prizes to be awarded the schools in Atlanta, Decatur, DeKalb and Fulton which collect the most scrap per pupil.

Business houses were finding more and more scrap which they did not realize they had. The telephone at Walnut 2035, scrap headquarters, continued to ring with calls for wrecking crews to dismantle furnaces, radiators, boilers and other heavy fixtures that had to be torn down expertly.

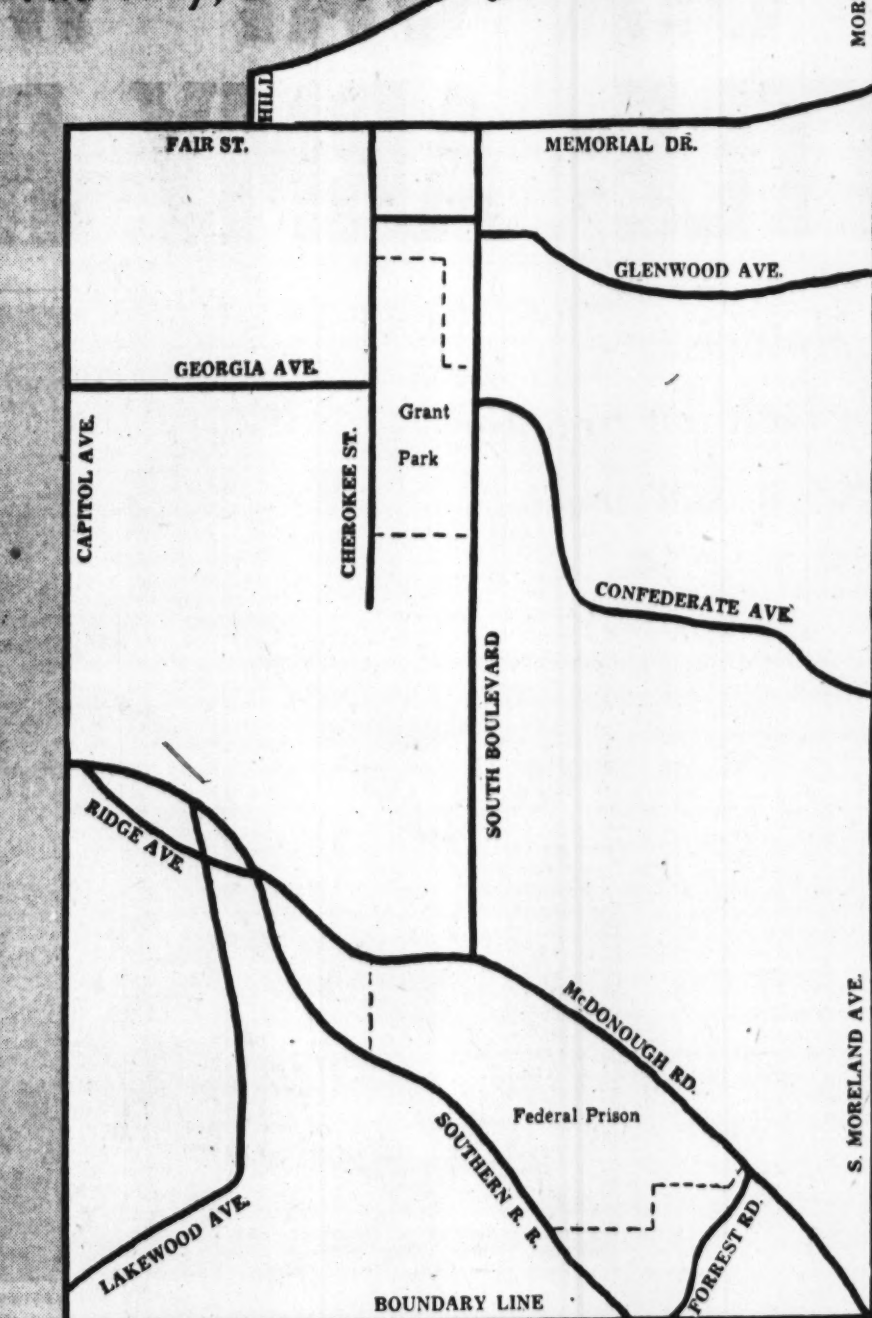

The scrap drive, instead of slowing down after 10 days, is gaining momentum with every day. It will last through October 24.

WLB Refuses Wage Raise To Ford Workers

Auto Union Requests Increase of 12 1-2 Cents Per Hour.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The War Labor Board today rejected a request of 115,000 employees of the Ford Motor Company for a wage increase of 12 1-2 cents an hour.

The request for such an increase was made by the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO) in negotiations for a new labor contract to replace one expiring October 31.

The board gave no reason for its action. It said a formal opinion setting forth its position would be released within a "day or so."

The union had contended that a wage increase was necessary to bring workers' wages in line with increases in the cost of living.

Board officials who asked that they not be quoted said the request could not be justified when measured by the principle set up in the Little Steel case.

Duo-Pianists To Open Tech Series Tonight

Mario Braggiotti, Walter Shaw Will Offer Popular Program.

The brilliant young duo-pianists scheduled to open the Georgia Tech Student Entertainment Series at the Tech auditorium at 8:30 o'clock tonight will be Mario Braggiotti and Walter Shaw. Braggiotti's former partner, Jacques Fray, is now in government service and thus unable to appear on tour.

Braggiotti's new teammate is a young American pianist who has won many scholarships and prizes in competition with today's top-flight piano virtuosos. According to Braggiotti, he is one of the most talented young pianists in the field.

The program tonight will be a popular one, by request. Braggiotti's arrangements, which won great favor here in his concert last season at the Woman's Club auditorium, will be featured. But this year, there will be arrangements of compositions by Jerome Kern, Cole Porter, Gershwin and Ravel, rather than Bach and Wagner.

Grieg's piano concerto in A minor, also arranged by Braggiotti, will be included in the program, however.

Braggiotti and Shaw are on a tour of the south. They appeared in Spartanburg, S. C., last night and will be in Macon, Ga., tomorrow night.

Navy Onslaught Has Air Support Of MacArthur

Heavy Bombers Smash Japanese Airdrome at Rabaul.

By MURLIN SPENCER.

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Wednesday, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Supporting Allied naval forces in the Solomon Islands battle area, General Douglas MacArthur sent a large formation of heavy bombers into smashing attacks on the Japanese airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain, again yesterday for the third time in a week, a communique said today.

The big bombers attacked during darkness, dropping "many tons" of bombs, including 1,000-pounders, on runways and dispersal areas of the air fields of the great Japanese base, where at least 30,000 troops and many planes have been assembled.

In a similar raid announced in last Saturday's communique 60 tons of bombs were dropped on Rabaul and the following day 40 tons were dropped.

Large Fires.

Today's communique did not say whether the latest attack equaled the previous in extent, but said large fires and explosions were caused and that heavy damage was believed to have been inflicted.

"Many direct hits were made in the midst of parked aircraft on the ground," the communique said.

A strong force of Allied medium bombers, during the same night, attacked the Buka airdrome, at the northern tip of the Solomons, causing fires and explosions.

Meanwhile, in the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea Australian jungle troops continued their advance toward Kokoda despite Japanese resistance.

Communique.

"Our ground forces successfully penetrated enemy defense positions north of Myola by frontal and flanking action. Our advance is continuing."

The ground operations were supported by air attacks on the enemy supply lines leading down from the mountains to the invasion base of Buna on the coast.

Attack units with a fighter escort conducted a sweep over the Wairopi area, where they repeatedly had pounded a suspension bridge, and went on to the coast for attack on barges along the beach.

These attacks were followed up by a night raid on the Buna airdrome by heavy bombers.

Allied medium bombers also attacked occupied portions of Dili, Portuguese Timor, but heavy clouds prevented observation of results.

Japanese Admiral Loses Face, Also Pants, on Guadalcanal

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 13.—(AP)—One Jap admiral lost more than "face" when the Marines landed on Guadalcanal.

Lieutenant John E. Flaherty told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Flaherty, in a letter received today:

"The Japs left their breakfast half-eaten, and I saw an admiral jump headfirst through the wall of his grass hut, dressed only in his underwear."

Big Scrap Heap Stands As Monument to Youth

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The 4,000-ton mountain of war scrap on the auditorium circle stands as a monument to Emma Flores, 8.

Her arms loaded with pieces of old iron she had gathered, the child was struck and fatally injured by an auto wrecker.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Half a dozen slot machines seized in a raid 14 years ago, along with two taken Monday night from two night clubs, were donated to the city's scrap pile by Miami's police department.

Among witnesses called were William G. McRae, clerk of Fulton Selective Service Board No. 1, whom Kaplan is charged with attempting to bribe in an indictment now pending, and Pierre Howard, assistant United States attorney.

FBI Reports Positions Open In Washington

Interviews in Rome and Athens Scheduled for This Weekend.

National defense work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation has necessitated a vast increase in personnel and the creation of many new positions, which must be filled immediately. F. R. Hammack, special agent in charge of the Atlanta field office, said yesterday.

Hammack said the bureau now is expanding its employment program and will begin interviewing female applicants for clerical positions in Rome and Athens this weekend.

Robert S. Wahab Jr., FBI administrative assistant from Washington, will conduct interviews. Other towns throughout the state are expected to be included.

Hammack declared there is unlimited opportunity for clerical workers, starting at a salary of $1,440 per annum. Open positions at present are in Washington.

Applicants must be high school graduates, of good character and in good physical condition and between the ages of 18 and 40.

Wahab will be in Rome on Friday and in Athens Saturday. Interviews will be granted between 9 and 2 o'clock each day. Offices in Rome will be located in room 216, Post Office building, and in Athens at the city council chamber.

Applicants are asked to bring photographs of themselves, approximately three by five inches in size.

New Health Courses Listed For Schools

Board Approves Social Hygiene and Tuberculosis Programs.

The Atlanta board of education yesterday approved two new health courses for local schools—social hygiene courses for junior and senior high schools beginning with the ninth grade, and a tuberculosis program for girls' high schools.

The Atlanta Tuberculosis Association and the city and state health departments will co-operate in the tuberculosis educational project at Girls' High school, and tuberculosis tests will be given all students whose parents consent. Where positive reactions are found, the patients will be referred to family physicians, school nurses or public health nurses.

Both programs are designed to reduce disease and to train students in preventive methods.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton, school superintendent, reported that 18 women school teachers were married during the summer months.

Colonel George S. Clarke, of the U. S. Army, who succeeded Colonel Philip Fry as PMS&T of the Atlanta area which includes Boys' High, Tech High, Decatur and Fulton county schools, Colonel Clarke was on Bataan with General Douglas MacArthur during the Japanese attack.

House Passes Poll Tax Bill By 252 to 84

Measure Goes to Senate After Bitter Sectional Fight.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—A measure outlawing the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting was passed overwhelmingly by the house late today after a bitter sectional fight centering around the issues of states' rights, the bill's constitutionality, and the vote for the Negro.

Fiercely but futilely, a southern bloc battled the measure down to the final 252 to 84 roll call vote which sent it on to the senate, with Representative Colmer, Democrat, Mississippi, assailing his northern Democratic colleagues for their "ingratitude" to the solid south.

But, from the measure's supporters came the cry that the Negro now is fighting for this country, that he is entitled to vote for its officials; that the legislation would carry this country's message of Democracy to oppressed people the world over.

Direct Object. Colmer declared that the bill's direct object was "to enfranchise the Negro in the south."

He said, "We see the sorry spectacle of that (Democratic) party, joining hands with the Republican party; nay, more than that, taking the leadership in trying to pass another force bill."

He said the measure would prevent "the people of the southland from even controlling their own election laws, their own state primaries, and meeting their own problems which are peculiar to that section."

Eight States. Eight states—Tennessee, Virginia, Arkansas, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Texas—require the payment of poll taxes as a condition for voting—and it was from their representatives that the chief opposition stemmed.

In tones of deep sarcasm, Representative Brown, Democrat, Georgia, noted that the chief support of the legislation came from the metropolitan areas of the north, and observed: "I never thought that the day would come when the crusaders of New York and Chicago would be called upon to purify and regulate the ballot box of my state."

Meanwhile, Governors R. M. Jeffries, of South Carolina, and Governor Frank M. Dixon, of Alabama, both Democrats, appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee to enter their opposition to a similar anti-poll-tax bill.

Small Industry Not Mobilized, Senators Find

'Paper Work' of U. S. Causing Non-Utilization, Witnesses Say.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP) Chairman Murray, Democrat, of Montana, asserted tonight testimony before the Senate Small Business Committee indicated that procurement officials of the armed forces had failed to utilize small plants fully in the war effort and his group would undertake "to place the blame where it belongs."

To that end, Senator Murray, at the instance of Senator Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, summoned Commander F. P. Delahanty and Lieutenant Commander S. W. Donogh, of the Navy's Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, for questioning Thursday. Specifically, Murray said, the committee wanted to know about a recent Navy order placing the entire production of ready-made officers' uniforms of all ranks in the hands of two civilian manufacturers—Cohen Goldman, of New York, and Joseph & Feiss, of Cleveland, Ohio. Stanley J. Cummings, of New York, executive secretary of the National Association of Uniform Manufacturers, told the committee a group complained to Commander Delahanty about being cut off from some of the business and were told simply that they were "war casualties." He cited the case of a manufacturer who had contracts to supply uniforms for the Norfolk, Va., area, but was compelled to cease the work October 1.

Paper Work. Murray's announcement followed a committee session at which witnesses complained that government "paper work" and the procurement systems of the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission had combined to prevent "full mobilization" of the small plants.

Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, declaring he sometimes thought the typewriter and carbon paper were "the curse of civilization," offered to send to Washington some "dollar a year men who would really get tough" about the problem of distributing war contracts quicker.

LaGuardia said delay in putting small New York factories to work on war contracts was caused by such paper work as investigations, reports and diagrams.

At the same time, Russ Nixon, Washington representative of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (CIO), asserted that Donald M. Nelson, War Production Board chairman, "lacked the guts" to take war contracts jurisdiction from the Army and Navy, which with the Maritime Commission, were operating with "outmoded procurement policies."

Nixon said the service agencies played "a cute trick" on Nelson by making him the "goat" for public criticism of production failures when he had no authority over procurement and only recently gained "even an uncertain authority over raw material allocation."

"Herd up" that used stove, heater, fur coat, radio, gun, etc., and "corral" cash by advertising them in the Want Ads of The Constitution does many a BIG job.

All America Knows Budweiser... but Few Know This

To Help a Child's Dream Come True

A candy castle... snowdrifts of marshmallow! What youngster hasn't seen them in his dreams?

To the great candy industry of America, corn syrup is a necessary ingredient. Used in other foods as well as candy, it contributes much to the energy and nutrition of the nation. Many millions of pounds of corn syrup are produced each year by Anheuser-Busch for manufacturers of many essential products. Our Corn Products Division is an industry in itself.

Year after year, we have striven with research and resources to better the methods and facilities for brewing Budweiser. To do this, a laboratory specializing in fermentation and nutrition was necessary. Discoveries made in the laboratory and in the plant have led to the development of products contributing to human necessity and progress. Some of these products would appear to have only a remote relationship to brewing, yet, they are the result of scientific research into many allied fields.

Endless research in making the world's leading beer has led to other products

VITAMINS, B COMPLEX—For manufacturers of pharmaceutical and food products. Our plant is one of the world's largest sources.

VITAMIN D—Anheuser-Busch produces enough of the basic material for Vitamin D to supply the entire American market.

BAKER'S YEAST—We are one of America's biggest suppliers of standard and enriched yeasts and malt syrup used to make bread.

SYRUPS—for food, table and confectionery uses and special syrups for medicinal purposes.

STARCH—for food, textile, paper and other industries—millions of pounds annually.

VITAMINS FOR LIVESTOCK—We are America's biggest supplier of yeast vitamins used to fortify animal feeds.

REFRIGERATING EQUIPMENT—for retailers of frozen foods and ice cream the country over. This division is now working all-out on glider wing and fuselage assemblies for our Armed Forces.

DIESEL ENGINES—Adolphus Busch, founder of Anheuser-Busch, acquired the first rights to manufacture this revolutionary engine in America and thus started our great Diesel industry on its way.

return journey. They flew from England to this country and will fly back to England and on to Sweden.

They are writing back to their country stories of America's great production. They have seen it. For three months they have seen factories and shipyards and ammunition plants. They are writing back—and the word will get out—that this country has not yet reached its production peak.

Alfred Ote, spokesman for the party, said that Sweden would face darker days in the next few weeks. Hitler must decide whether he will attempt to take Sweden this winter. He already has Norway, Finland and Denmark.

The Finns, he said, have developed a great contempt for the German soldiers who three times have been repulsed by the Russian fighting from Finnish soil. Ote is the author of a book on President Roosevelt and has written others. They are all banned by the Germans. He is foreign editor of Svenska Dagbladet.

They had expressed a desire, on reaching Atlanta, to see an Army or manufacturing plant. They saw the Cyclorama, as guests of the mayor.

See Margaret Mitchell. They had asked to see just one person—Margaret Mitchell.

And Miss Mitchell saw them. She was the only feminine guest at the luncheon given by Harrison Jones, vice president and chairman of Coca-Cola's board. Mr. Jones allowed he believed any lady who could create Scarlett O'Hara could hold her own with 30 men at lunch. The Swedish journalists had a huddle with Miss Mitchell and told her of the reception her book had in their country and of their desire to meet her.

Others on the tour are: Sten Hedman, reporter on Dagens Nyheter, Stockholm; Nils Horney, of the editorial staff of the Social Demokraten; Gustav Naestrom, art critic of Stockholm's Tidningen; and author of many books; Victor Vinde, former Paris correspondent of the Göteborg Handels Tidningen; and author of "The Fall of France"; Edward C. Acworth Pupils Pick 27 Bales Of Cotton

Special to THE CONSTITUTION, ACWORTH, Ga., Oct. 13.—

There is very little cotton left in the fields around Acworth for an army of boys and girls from the Acworth school have picked from them 27 bales with 57 pounds left over for good measure, according to Superintendent J. D. Ramsay.

For seven days school was closed at noon and then the pupils from the first to the eleventh grades either mounted their bicycles or crowded into the school bus and were off to give aid to the distressed farmers with snow-white fields. Then there were the two whole days of the Saturdays.

For the nine days there was a daily average of three bales. The first grade had more than 200 pounds to its credit and a girl who picked 1,200 pounds won the highest individual rating.

The children were paid a penny a pound for their labors and most of them invested their earnings in defense stamps.

tained by a "preferred mileage class," which includes only a few groups of drivers performing duties held essential to the war effort and the public welfare." The "C" book ration varies according to need.

Commercial vehicles, including trucks and buses, would receive a "T" book, whose contents is to be determined after official application to the Office of Defense Transportation. In the east, the "T" book will supplant present "S" books.

Each vehicle owner will be given a sticker to place on his windshield to show what kind of ration book he owns.

Referring again to the problem of saving rubber, Henderson said, "local boards will be authorized to reduce, or revoke, rations held by speeders reported to them by local and state enforcement officers." In addition to normal speed regulations, the boards were asked to remember that 35 miles per hour is the recommended national speed limit.

men in Germany. Referring to the reports of his dealings abroad, a number two man of Nazidom said:

"I would be only too grateful to the gentlemen if they would give me the names of the banks and tell me what sums I have in them."

Today the British radio in a special broadcast—beamed to Germany so that the German people could hear it—obliged the corrupt reichsmarshal by informing him of the precise places and names of his own foreign investments.

Goering, said the broadcast, holds nearly $4,000,000 worth of life insurance policies with American, Swiss, Dutch and Swedish companies, placed for him by the firm of Jauch & Huebner.

Exact Data Given. So that there would be no mistake the London radio even gave the Berlin address of the firm as W 62 Budapeststrasse 28.

Approximately $750,000 worth of American bonds, of the Pennsylvania railroad, the Illinois Central, City Service and Bethlehem Steel, were purchased for Goering, the broadcast said, through a traveling agent, Edward Buerkel.

Another agent, it was added, bought $800,000 worth of bonds in Montecarlo and Royal Dutch companies for the reichsmarshal.

These holdings, the German-language broadcast continued, were deposited in a Japanese-owned San Francisco concern, the Sumitomo Bank.

Meanwhile, Goering was smart enough to refrain from "freezing" all of his money in securities that might—and some of them did—slip beyond his control. He also salted away a little ready cash.

This tidy sum, said the London radio, amounts to some $2,650,000 worth of currency—but not German.

Currency Sailed Awar. Through Heinz Schuetter, of Hamburg, a central board member of Germany's giant I. G. Farben Chemical Trust, the wary Goering placed foreign currency to the value of $1,250,000 in the Sao Paulo Safe Deposit Bank No. 1 in Brazil, according to the British broadcast.

Another million dollars' worth of Swedish, Danish, Dutch and Belgian currencies, the broadcast went on, were deposited for Goering by Agent Z. Eckhardt, a gestapo member, in safe deposit bank vaults in the Svenska Handels Institution at Malmo, Sweden, and in an Italian bank at Trieste.

Still another $400,000 worth of foreign currency, it was added, was placed by Goering with an importing firm in Chicago and a stock broker in Zurich.

F.D.R. Beckons Tourist Willkie To White House

Traveler Changes Plans in Minneapolis on President's Message.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Changing his plans in response to a suggestion from the White House, Wendell Willkie said tonight he would end his precedent-setting world tour, during which he undertook missions for the President, at Washington instead of New York.

Willkie arrived here at 2:22 p. m. (central war time) from Edmonton, Alta., aboard the "Gulliver," an Army plane which carried him and his party over 17 countries and territories. On his arrival he announced he planned to go on to New York tomorrow and thence to Indiana for a rest.

At a press conference tonight, however, he disclosed he had received a message a short time before from the White House, suggesting that the President would like to see him tonight or tomorrow. Therefore, he said, he planned to leave about 9 a. m. tomorrow to fly non-stop to Washington and would advise the President's secretary when he arrived.

Aides indicated the plane would reach National airport about 3 p. m. tomorrow. The 1940 Republican presidential nominee indicated in Edmonton last night that he would have something to say when he reached the United States about "flippant statements made by certain public officials" concerning his second front statement in Moscow.

Mrs. Mary Ann Dry, 85, Succumbs at Home Here

Mrs. Mary Ann Dry, 85, a former resident of Philadelphia, Pa., died yesterday at her home, 2495 Boulevard drive, S. E. She is survived by a son, William A. Dry, of Philadelphia; three daughters, Mrs. George Hice, Philadelphia; Mrs. Harry Mears, Pleasantville, N. J.; Mrs. L. D. Capallo, and three grandchildren, Mrs. Millard Puckett, Harry Capallo and Miss Peggy Capallo.

Funeral plans will be announced by Sam R. Greenberg.

Responding to President Roosevelt's fireside chat, and to an appeal by Secretary of War Stimson that it help build up "with the minimum delay the finest army in the world," congressional leaders disclosed plans to rush to house passage this week legislation lowering the draft age from 20 years to 18.

12 Months' Training.

Announcing plans for hearings tomorrow and Thursday and a house vote Friday or Saturday, Chairman May, Democrat, Kentucky, of the House Military Committee, said the legislation to be considered would provide "teen-age soldiers kept out of combat until they have had at least 12 months of training."

On the senate side, Chairman Reynolds, Democrat, North Carolina, of the Military Affairs Committee, said he agreed with President Roosevelt that lowering of the draft age was inevitable. Although Reynolds at first estimated senate hearings might take four or five weeks, he later expressed hope action might be obtained much sooner. For his part, he said, he was ready to vote tomorrow.

"Public Anxiety."

Some senators, notably Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, said there was considerable "public anxiety" over reports the Army might be built up to 10 to 13 million men and expressed hope that the hearings would bring out "as clear a prospectus as possible" of eventual military needs.

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, Democratic leader, told the senate:

"I assume we're going to pass a law. When the President, after consultation with his military and naval advisors, says we need the 18 and 19-year-olds, I'll support him and I think congress will. I think the country will accept his view, too. This being the case, I think the sooner we get it on the statute books the better."

Rayburn Comment.

Speaker Rayburn, calling a special press conference, told reporters the house "does not intend to be put in the position of doing anything to delay the war effort or the effective prosecution of it."

May said witnesses before the house committee would include Major General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director; Secretary Stimson, and possibly General George C. Marshall, chief of staff.

Two days, possibly with night sessions, should be ample time in which to hear their views, May said, adding the hearings would be closed except for that part of the testimony "which the public can be permitted to hear."

Wadsworth Bill.

Pending in May's committee is a bill introduced by Representative Wadsworth, Republican, New York, coauthor of the original draft law. His own bill, May said, would closely follow Wadsworth's except for the 12-months' training requirement and for a broadening of provisions relating to students whose draft number is called.

Where Wadsworth's bill would permit the deferment until the end of the academic year of students called for induction during the second semester, May's would

Street Railway Salvage Awaits Council's Okay

Plan Advanced To Reclaim Old Street Car Track.

Salvage of 30 miles of abandoned street car rails, on which work was suspended several weeks ago, will be resumed at once if the mayor and council approve a plan advanced yesterday by Clarke Donaldson, city chief of construction.

Donaldson said he will ask city council's public works committee tomorrow to approve a program through which the Metals Reserve Corporation, a federal agency working with WPB, will remove rails and repave streets. He said the plan has the approval of the federal agencies involved, and that the salvaged materials would go to the agencies for war industries.

Proceeds of sale of the reclaimed materials would pay for the salvage work, it was reported.

Mayor Hartsfield and Donaldson conferred on details of the proposal late yesterday and gave it their support.

Approximately 4,000 tons of rails could be reclaimed from the project, Donaldson estimated.

You will never be off the fairway of good taste, if you call for the whiskey that's prime-matured. Experts of another era knew that, too. Their choicest whiskeys were those placed high on the top-racks of the warehouse. There, favorable air temperatures rendered them prime in quality, evenly matured. Secret Society Flares Across Georgia Skies

The spirit of the papers in the secretary of states' office, however, indicated that the leaders of the Vigilantes, Inc., hold out high hope for the future of Georgia's quota of the human race and that soon the knights errant will be preventing civilization from slipping plumb off its casters in these perilous war times.

"Said corporation," said the papers, "shall have the power to confer an initiative or degree ritualism, fraternal and secret obligations, words, grips, signs and ceremonies, under which there shall be united only a membership of white male persons."

The organization "further desires all rights, powers and privileges as are now extended to similar organizations," although no reference was made to the Ku Klux Klan or the Silver Shirts or a dozen other similar organizations.

The organizers "desire a supreme legislative body, in which shall be vested the power to adopt and amend the constitution and by-laws for regulation of the general purpose and welfare of the corporation and its subordinate heads."

The supreme legislative body of "Vigilantes, Inc.," according to the papers, will be composed of five members from each congressional district in Georgia, the members to be selected by a state convention to be held at the time and place to be designated.

Besides an effort to steer the storm-tossed craft of male white civilization through the shoals and sunken rocks of life, the Vigilantes plan to sell paraphernalia, regalia, stationery, jewelry and other materials.

"He sent a messenger boy up to his commander, saying that the engine had turned its last turn," was the story his parents heard. "But the messenger was killed on the way."

"We lost all hope for our boy," said Mrs. E. E. Elmore, his mother. "It makes me think back to the time I visited him on board the Quincy in June, 1941. They were having airplane maneuvers all around, and I wondered then what part they would play. I felt uneasy."

Was Home in April. Lieutenant Commander Elmore had been aboard the Quincy two years, but was home on leave for a week in April. It was when he returned to duty that a friend of the family described him as "a handsome, lovable boy, but mighty in spirit."

He had just celebrated his forty-second birthday when he wrote his last letter, July 31. "This is really a wonderful life. I would be completely happy except for not being with my loved ones."

Lieutenant Commander Elmore's roommate at Annapolis was serving on the Quincy's sister ship, the Vincennes, when it went down in the same battle, and Mrs. Elmore said they had heard that the was lost.

After his graduation from Annapolis, Elmore spent several years on duty in Europe, and then taught at Yale University. In 1930 he was on the faculty at Annapolis, and afterwards served as a recruiting officer for Georgia and Florida with headquarters at Macon.

Wife in York. His wife, Mrs. Marie Link Elmore, of York, Pa., is a concert soprano. They have two sons, Eugene Elmore III, 17, now attending a military school in Virginia, and Billy, who is with his mother at York.

His sister is Mrs. Irwin T. Ragdale, 3894 Peachtree road, and his parents are living with her. James Perry, his cousin, was killed last year in the plane crash in which Captain Eddie Rickenbacker was injured. Perry was pilot of the plane.

Also aboard the stricken Quincy was Second Lieutenant Arthur D. Gutman, a Marine, husband of Mrs. Helen Gutman, of 107 Sixteenth street, Atlanta. Mrs. Gutman, now in Richmond, Va., working for the War Department, was notified that her husband was believed missing in September.

Atlantans on Leave. Harry P. Weatherby and Leroy G. Martin, both aboard the Vincennes in the battle, were in Atlanta on leave yesterday and told of the sudden onslaught which sent the cruisers Vincennes, Quincy and Astoria down.

Weatherby, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Weatherby, of 194 Merritts avenue, was on duty at the fire control center and saw his commanding officer's leg shot off. "I picked him up and took him to the dressing station," he said. "As I walked away from the cot a shell burst right over it. Others were killed, too. Those of us who left made our way to the deck and jumped overboard." Weatherby's brother, Elbert, reported missing in action, was on a lower deck.

The Vincennes crew abandoned ship without life preservers, since they were stored in a part of the ship that was blown to pieces.

Hours Afloat. Martin, who is the son of Mrs. Leroy G. Martin Sr., of 364 Candler street, told of hours in the ocean clinging to an ammunition can after he abandoned ship.

"The fellow on the can with me had his right arm hooked over the can. He didn't know it," Martin went on, "but his hand was gone. I didn't have the heart to tell him." He added that both he and his friend were picked up later by a destroyer.

Other Atlantans in the battle were Murt Kelly, of 160 Peachtree way, former American Legion leader, who survived the sinking of the Vincennes, and Frank T. Maddux, former Atlanta sports writer, who is listed as missing in the combat.

3 Big Grocery Chains To Close This Afternoon

Starting today, three major Atlanta grocery chains will close their stores at 1 o'clock every Wednesday afternoon to alleviate the labor shortage, officials announced yesterday.

Abd El Krim Proclaims Himself Vichy Loyalist

CHY, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The French announced today that the exiled Riff warrior chieftain, Abd El Krim, has proclaimed himself a Vichy loyalist.

Abd El Krim is in banishment on the Indian ocean island of Reunion, near Madagascar, a prisoner of the French since a revolt by his Moroccan Arab tribe collapsed in 1926.

(If the Riff leader, who succeeded against Spain in 1923 before taking on France in a costly struggle the next year, actually has pledged loyalty to Vichy it might be an attempt to trade a vow of allegiance for his freedom.)

U. S. Beats Japs in Naval Battle

beleaguered Japanese garrison on rocky Kiska was feeling the devastating effect of the steady American pounding and would have a difficult, if not impossible, time trying to hold on to the island through the bitter months ahead.

Crucial Battle Area. The most significant part of the Navy's reports of the day, however, concerned the operations in the southeastern Solomons where both sides have been pouring in reinforcements for weeks—the American command with a firm determination to press its offensive advantages and the Japanese with full intentions of reconquering the strategic islands.

In precipitating Sunday night's naval battle, the Navy high command, according to the communiqué, took cognizance of the fact that Guadalcanal's air force, unaided, had been unable to stop night landings of enemy troops which in recent days had been increasing in size.

No American task force has been reported in the area for many days and the cruiser-destroyer group sent in on Sunday apparently took the enemy by surprise.

Scene of Battle. The battle was fought in the vicinity of Savo island which lies athwart the route of approach to the north point of Guadalcanal where the Japs have their troop landing beach-head. It was fought with guns and torpedoes and lasted 30 minutes, at the end of which time the Japanese were forced to abandon their landing operations and withdraw south of their ships were still afloat.

The torpedo planes and dive bombers which hunted down the scattered ships next day made their first attack in the morning, about 10 o'clock, when they overtook two cruisers south of New Georgia Island. They got a torpedo into one cruiser and scored several near bomb hits. The cruiser was left burning and dead in the water.

Second Contact. In the afternoon the planes made their second contact, attacking an enemy cruiser and a destroyer. The Navy was not certain whether this was the same cruiser which had been blasted in the morning or another damaged ship. The night before, but conservative listing in the totals as the same one. At any rate it was hit and severely damaged and the crew abandoned ship. The destroyer was bombed and left in a sinking condition.

These successes at sea and in the air, coupled with the advance of the Marines on land, have greatly strengthened the American position in the Solomons and greatly increased the difficulties which the Japs face in their tenacious and sometimes desperate efforts to build up enough power in the land forces to make a new thrust at the airfield.

There is no certainty, of course, that they can be prevented from launching such a thrust.

Text of Communique.

The text of Navy communique No. 149 follows:

South Pacific (all dates are east longitude). 1. On various occasions during recent weeks the Japanese were successful in increasing the number of their troops on Guadalcanal Island by night landings from cruisers, destroyers and small transports. Navy and Marine Corps aircraft from Guadalcanal persistently attacked these landing parties, but air attack alone did not stop the landings. For this reason a task group of U. S. cruisers and destroyers was ordered to intercept enemy ships attempting further landings.

Midnight Clash.

2. At about midnight on the night of October 11-12, this task group engaged a force of enemy cruisers, destroyers and transports to the westward of Savo island. After a 30-minute battle fought with guns and torpedoes, the enemy was forced to abandon his landing attempt and withdraw. Several of our ships received minor to moderate damage and one U. S. destroyer was sunk. During the engagement our forces sank one heavy cruiser (Naii or Atago class), four destroyers and an enemy transport of about 5,000 tons.

3. During the morning of October 12 Navy and Marine Corps torpedo planes and dive bombers left Guadalcanal to locate and attack the retreating enemy ships. At about 10 o'clock two enemy cruisers were overtaken south of New Georgia Island. A torpedo hit was obtained on one cruiser and several bombs exploded nearby. The cruiser was left dead in the water and burning.

4. During the afternoon of October 12 an air group from Guadalcanal attacked an enemy cruiser and a destroyer, also in the area south of New Georgia Island. A direct bomb hit severely damaged and stopped the cruiser. When last seen her crew were abandoning ship. It is believed that this cruiser had been damaged during the previous engagements. A direct hit and several near misses set fire to the destroyer accompanying the cruiser and she was left in a sinking condition.

Jap Losses.

5. Reports received to date indicate that as a result of the night attack of October 11-12 and the air attacks on October 12, the enemy suffered the following minimum of damage:

(a) One heavy cruiser sunk.
(b) One cruiser badly damaged and out of action.
(c) Four destroyers sunk.

(d) One medium-sized transport sunk.
(e) One destroyer probably sunk.

6. The destroyer mentioned in paragraph two was the only U. S. ship lost in these actions.

Confidence that the American forces can hold their Solomons positions and eventually expand them was expressed, however, by Rear Admiral John S. McCain, who recently relinquished an air command in the southwest Pacific to take up new duties here as chief of the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics. McCain, attending Secretary Knox's press conference, expressed the opinion that "we have shown sufficient superiority in material and men to justify" his assertion.

Explains U. S. Success.

The admiral, who left the southwest Pacific September 20, cited as evidence of superiority the fact that from August 21 to September 17 the Japanese lost 133 planes over Guadalcanal to 25 American planes lost—a ratio of more than 5 to 1. He said the American success in the air was due to a combination of plane superiority and pilot training.

McCain reported that repeated American aerial attacks had made the enemy seaplane base at Rekata bay, on Santa Isabel island, and another base on Gizo island virtually untenable and that there were signs that the Japs were getting short of planes in the southwest Pacific. Some of their craft, he declared, seemed to have been rushed into battle fresh from the assembly line while others, particularly an old-style two-wing seaplane, were highly unsuited for use in the Solomons.

Germans Lose Eight More Planes in Malta Raid

CAIRO, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Malta's defenders bagged eight more Nazi planes today, bringing a three-day total to 47 definitely destroyed and about 50 more so badly damaged that some probably never regained their Sicilian bases.

Only six Spitfire pilots of the RAF were downed in this sustained struggle over the tiny sentinel island which has impeded Nazi sea-borne supplies from Italy to Marshal Rommel's Axis North African troops. Of the downed pilots two were rescued from the sea. Only a few casualties have been suffered and property damage was described as slight.

Few Bombs Dropped. Only a few of the Junkers 88 bombers which were heavily escorted by German and Italian fighters penetrated Malta's defenses to drop explosives, reports said tonight.

The island has been used so skillfully to impede the flow of supplies to North Africa that the Axis recently diverted its shipping further eastward, where Greek and Cretan ports were used.

But there the Axis ships ran into heavy attacks by the "pink elephant" long-range bombers of the United States Army air forces operating from secret bases in the eastern Mediterranean.

So observers concluded tonight the renewed onslaught on Malta was still another attempt to remove that menace and use the shorter Mediterranean supply route between Sicily and Tripoli.

1,000 Planes Downed. One RAF wing commander who just arrived here from Malta was asked for an explanation of the RAF's brilliant successes on the island.

"I don't think there's much you can say about it," he said, "except that our chaps are pretty good, that's all."

Of the eight planes downed today three were Axis bombers and five were fighters. The first to fall was chalked up as the thousandth destroyed by Malta's defenders in three years of siege.

The two-day (Sunday-Monday) total of enemy planes definitely destroyed was scored as 39, and of the 24 downed yesterday a new record of 22 of them were destroyed during daylight hours.

The defenders once before shot down 24 in 24 hours but never as many as 22 in the daylight until yesterday.

7 per cent of the total Fund goal represents year-round operation of the Fund—including all expense and cost of raising campaign quota.

An estimated reserve to offset uncollectable pledges has also been deducted from the Fund goal before the amounts were budgeted to the 32 agencies.

Despite the fact that the Budgeted Fund goal last year was $112,000 short of the minimum requirements as established by the budget committee. The 32 Charities and Character Building Institutions participating in the Fund were able to serve—the number of individuals in each of the 32 agencies as shown above. Because the amount raised was far short of the minimum requirements. The agencies did not have funds to provide for all who applied for assistance.

Government Seizes War Plants; Arrests 5 on Bribery Counts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The federal government, declaring more than $1,000,000 in management irregularities might be involved, seized plants of Triumph Explosives, Inc., at Elkton, Md., and of five subsidiaries today, and arrested five men on bribery charges.

The White House said the Navy had uncovered "numerous instances of bribery in the Triumph Company management." The firm makes munitions for both the Army and Navy.

Arrested on bribery charges were:

Josef Ben Decker, Triumph's founder and executive vice president; Reginald Gregory, chief civilian navy inspector; J. A. McCambridge and A. P. Fabrizi, until recently civilian inspectors at the plant, and Frank Poughkeepsie, former Army worker employed at Triumph when arrested.

"The inspectors," a White House statement said, "are charged with accepting bribes in the guise of 'service fees.'"

The Navy took over the plants under a presidential order which said this action was necessary to see that the plants were "effectively and safely" operated.

The continuation of the present management under conditions disclosed by the Navy's investigation, a statement said, was regarded as endangering production on a full-time basis. The White House said there would be no interruption of production of war material, for which Triumph had been awarded the Navy "E."

When competent officials, satisfactory to the Army and Navy are available, the plants will be returned to private management. They now are in charge of Commander E. B. McCreary.

Decker appeared last summer before the House Naval Committee in its investigation of agents' fees paid by companies which obtained war contracts. The committee obtained evidence that Triumph had paid $327,588 in fees to one Washington firm and that Decker acknowledged he got part of the money.

Georgian Among Sailors, Soldiers, Marines Presented 27 Awards

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 13.—(AP) U. S. fleet headquarters disclosed today that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz visited Guadalcanal island in the Solomons two weeks ago and presented 27 awards to Navy, Marine and Army heroes, including a Georgia colonel of Marines.

The trip to the South Pacific island by the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet followed a conference with Vice Admiral Robert L. Ghormley, Naval commander in the South Pacific, and Lieutenant General H. M. Arnold, commanding general of U. S. air forces.

(A Navy statement two weeks ago disclosed that Nimitz, Ghormley, and Arnold had conferred "somewhere in the Pacific.")

16 Navy Crosses. The awards were 16 Navy crosses and 11 Distinguished Flying crosses, all for

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 14, 1942.

Strong and Helpful

Americans will indorse all that their Commander-in-Chief and President had to say in his talk to the nation Monday evening.

He plainly was asking from the American people the support of public opinion to bring about the necessary legislation to keep farmers supplied with farm labor. This legislation, he said, would of necessity be somewhat drastic.

The people are ready for it. The farmers are not merely ready. They are angry because it is not already in use.

The President commended such plans as the Georgia city of Barnesville originated, where whole communities go out and work in the fields. He asked that it be continued.

The public will commend, too, his request that older boys and girls in schools be excused for enough days to go out and work in the harvest. He said he rather believed the education they received in doing this work would be of as much value as that they received in the classroom.

This is, of course, true.

The Constitution hopes that school superintendents all over the state will organize their older students so that Georgia's cotton and peanut crops may be handled. If members of the community can join in with the boys, the cotton can be saved.

We must do it. The nation needs the cotton and the oil.

The peanuts also can be harvested with school aid.

The students will learn more about economics and the community needs in a week of work than they would learn in a year of school.

The President spoke also of the second front. The people will know it is impossible to say when and where we will strike. We will strike, that is what is important.

We find ourselves also in agreement with the President in his criticism of the typewriter strategists. One of the ridiculous features of this war has been the number of former Army and Naval officers who have been writing as "experts." Their predictions have been ninetieths wrong. They have been joined by a few civilians whose guesses have been just as good, and as bad, as those of the solemn and pompous experts with ex-titles.

It is a tragic fact that war demands the best of our men and of our toll. Young men make the best soldiers. That always has been true. In asking for the draft of the young men of 18 and 19 the President did so with a full realization of the heart-break in that request. In this day of mechanization the young soldier is the one who can make an army go.

The President found the spirit of the country good. He knows we are united. He believes that the growing might of the United Nations is making the Axis powers jittery and that the war of nerves is now booming.

It was a good speech. It was a speech of strength. It was plain, matter-of-fact, and it did not minimize the sacrifice and the sorrow ahead. In a war of survival one cannot minimize those factors. The nation will feel stronger and more confident after that speech.

Abercrombie Record

Dr. T. F. Abercrombie has completed his 25th year of service as director of public health of Georgia.

Dr. Abercrombie has seen many amazing developments in public health and in medicine generally. He has seen the pioneering in that field. Indeed, he was one of the pioneers. He has been a part of the progress and has made generous and helpful contributions to that field of medicine.

It is impossible to estimate the value of his contribution to Georgia. Certain it is that many, now living, would not be living had it not been for the work of Dr. Abercrombie and those who have assisted him in the fight against disease in Georgia. The death rate has been lowered and preventable diseases greatly reduced.

It is a fight never won. He needs the help of the people of the state. Too few Georgia counties have health units. Too few persons have interested themselves in the co-operation of their counties with public health officials of the state.

Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the State Board of Health, believes that all Georgia should be made aware of this 25 years of service, and that the people should dedicate themselves to supporting Dr. Abercrombie and his work. In this The Constitution heartily agrees and joins. Dr. Abercrombie merits the support of all Georgians. He has many, many more years of useful service, and we join with the state in thanks and gratitude for the work of the first quarter of a century.

—WHERE'S YOUR SCRAP?—

There is this about it, however: With half a million strangers roosting in wartime Washington, you don't notice the noisy starlings.

—WHERE'S YOUR SCRAP?—

Commendable Decision

Governor Eugene Talmadge has announced that he finds the decision of the state Democratic convention, held recently at Macon, to be correct in its nomination of the Honorable William Y. Atkinson as the party's choice for the vacancy in the supreme court of the state.

The Governor merits the gratitude of the state for this decision. It is always unfortunate when the supreme court is involved in any legal controversy. The Governor always has been a party man, and it is not surprising that he indorsed the action of the convention. The party is greater than any individual and the Governor, as a Democrat, always has supported that fact. The party is the stronger by his action.

Judge Atkinson will bring to the court a brilliant legal mind and also the confidence and respect of the people of Georgia.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

STRANGE INACTIVITY WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—There is something strange about the singular inactivity of the Japanese since the Midway battle. For a nation which showed such hard striking powers during the days following Pearl Harbor, its lack of aggressive action of late has left military observers somewhat mystified.

Aside from the half-hearted occupation of the Aleutians and the overland drive against Port Moresby in New Guinea, which ended in failure, the Japs have been on the defensive almost entirely. Nothing has been heard from the main body of their fleet since the disastrous blow it received from our forces at Midway. We have had a few brushes with straggling individual units in waters off the Solomons, which we recaptured from them, and the Aleutians, which they now seem to be evacuating, but the Japanese navy, in main, appears to have taken to home bases.

After the fall of Singapore and the Dutch East Indies, the Allied high command had expected that the Japs would move again immediately in one of four directions. They were counted on to strike either at Australia, India, Alaska, or Siberia. In an effort to meet the threat against Australia, our last remaining foothold in the South Pacific, we rushed all possible men and equipment to that area. We were in such a hurry to get reinforcements out there that we sent the Queen Mary, pride of the British merchant fleet, all the way to Sydney without benefit of naval escort, depending on her great speed to outdistance any enemy battleship that might try to intercept her. The Mary got through, not once but several times in this way, as did the other transports we conveyed to the region. The forces we moved were in time to prevent the Japs from making an attempt to take Australia.

ONLY ON DEFENSIVE But while Australia was saved we still expected the Japs to strike at India or Siberia. Neither of these moves has materialized. In addition to that, their midsummer offensive in central China was a serious one, considering that it was still making headway. Now they are definitely on the defensive in the Aleutians, in New Guinea and in such sections of the Solomons as they still hold. What may be responsible for all of this is a subject of interesting speculation. It may be that the blow we struck them first in the Coral Sea and later at Midway aroused them to a sense of realization that the United States and Great Britain are not the pushovers their warlords had pictured in plunging the little Japanese empire into war with us.

We put a fleet of 80 vessels to flight at Midway after sinking four of the most important Japanese carriers and a host of other vessels. Earlier in the Coral Sea we sank at least two other carriers and lost only one of our own. The destruction we wrought in these two naval air battles is supposed to have restored the naval balance in our favor in the Pacific.

OUR LOSSES MADE UP Although we lost two of our own largest carriers in these battles—the Lexington and the Yorktown—the ratio was still three to one in our favor. Since then, also, we have announced the launching of other carriers which will more than make up for the loss we sustained.

Estimates are made by competent sources that, since Pearl Harbor, Japan has lost a sixth and possibly as much as a fifth of her merchant tonnage. If this is true, her supply problem must be a serious one, considering that her forces are spread over such a wide area in the Pacific.

Lack of supply vessels, however, would not alone be sufficient to explain why the conquest of Burma was not followed up with an invasion of India, or why the Siberian attack has failed to materialize. Neither has Japanese offensive power been fatally undermined by the loss of so much merchant tonnage, according to naval experts.

One of the most logical explanations put forward on the failure of the Japs to continue the offensive concerns the developments around Stalingrad. The capture of the Russian Volga city was supposed to have been the signal for a Jap movement into Siberia or India—perhaps both. But the Hitler timetable has been held up by the stubborn resistance of the Red Army's heroic defense.

If the Allies were in position to start full-scale offensive operations in the Pacific now, the threat against Siberia and India might be definitely removed. Japan hasn't enough air force to divide between three battlefronts.

ARE JAPS DECEIVED? There is no evidence to indicate, however, that the Japs have been deceived by the action of the Solomons had this outward aspect at first. Perhaps the Japs themselves have been deceived by the move and have halted all other plans to see what we are about before getting deeper involved. It is interesting to point out that the invasion of Siberia had been predicted to start about the time we stepped into the Solomons.

Over and above all of this, a rather mystifying change has taken place in the Japanese propaganda line lately. In the days of their steady successes after Pearl Harbor their officials were telling the people that our Navy had been destroyed and we were a race grown flabby and weak from too much luxury. Recently their broadcasts, picked up by the OWI, have warned that America is producing such a vast supply of lethal equipment that the war in fact is just beginning.

Tokyo broadcasts have even announced that we are building a bomber plane with a flight range of 10,000 miles—enough to fly from Pearl Harbor to the back without refueling.

Whatever the cause, the Japs at the moment seem to have pulled in their horns.

The Price Of Victory.

One of the facts of life in regard to war this country has yet to learn is that neither victor nor vanquished can expect to go through any battle without paying the price. That price consists of young lives lost, of equipment, ships and planes and tanks and guns destroyed.

We learned, on Tuesday morning, that two months ago, in the early stages of the Solomon Islands campaign, three fine U. S. cruisers were sent to the bottom. Those Japs are marksmen, make no mistake of that. Their gunnery must be excellent.

We had heard, earlier, that an Australian cruiser had gone down in that engagement. Now it seems there were four cruisers lost, the other three being our own. A majority of the personnel, says the Navy statement, was saved but the casualties were, nevertheless, heavy.

We are not yet having things our own way in the Pacific. Cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers and other craft are being smashed by Japanese shells, bombs and torpedoes.

We came out on top in the engagements of the Coral Sea and of Midway. So far, we seem to have succeeded in gaining our objective in the Solomons. But the Japs have landed reinforcements on Guadalcanal and whether or not we can hold that objective remains to be seen. Anyway, apparently we could not prevent the landing of those reinforcements.

And, according to available public information, we are just about driving all the Japanese forces of occupation out of the Aleutians.

This is to the good. But, don't forget that for every soldier we must pay the price. All we can hope for is that the enemy pays more as he goes down in defeat.

But the announcement about those three cruiser sinkings should awaken us all to the fact that the price of war is destruction and death.

More To Come.

There are more casualties coming home to us, never doubt that. We sent hundreds of planes over France in a daylight attack and four of ours failed to return. True, we destroyed something like 100 enemy planes but this proportion will not always hold. As the air fighting gains in intensity, as we attack in heavier and heavier force, more and more of our planes and their crews will fall to return.

We must, always, pay the price. Many amateur strategists are calling loudly for that "second front" which has not yet been opened.

Personally I not only think it should be opened, I think it is certain to come. As soon as the men who know, the military and naval experts, are ready for the launching. And not before. For a futile attempt, a second "Dunkirk" would be tragedy and might well lose our side the war. We can't take avoidable chances.

But, when that second front is opened, even if it is successful, we must pay a heavy price of death, the supreme god of war. There will be many sad American homes when the news of the second front comes across the Atlantic, when the casualty lists are announced.

It is the price which will have to be paid.

Nearly Half Lost.

There was a famous Commando raid at Dieppe, with more than 10,000 men taking part. There were British, Canadians and Americans in that force.

Approximately half of them failed to come back after the raid, while of those who did return a large proportion were wounded.

It is not the place of a layman to evaluate the Dieppe raid, nor to say whether it achieved its objective—nor do we know what was its real purpose. We don't know whether the gain, in knowledge, in strategy, in experience, was worth the cost.

But we do know the cost was high. And common sense tells us that, when that second front is Willkie NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Call me a "Mystery" if you like, but I have attended as a reporter 12 of our national political nominating conventions, starting with the one in Chicago in 1912, which nominated Mr. Taft over T. R., and including the one in Philadelphia in 1940, which named Wendell Willkie, but I tell you all this business of Willkie's being put over on the unsuspecting Republicans as a New Deal Trojan horse and a Wall Street tool is a mystery to me. I saw nothing of the kind and thought—as I believe Ray Clapper wrote at the time, and he is, in my opinion, one of our most intelligent reporters of such matters—that Mr. Willkie was the free choice of an unbosomed convention. Hugh Johnson proudly claimed to have discovered him and later disowned him, but before Hugh trotted him out I was in Chicago in the fall of 1939 and, in conversation with Frank Knox in his office at the Daily News, asked him if he had any idea of carrying the target against the Republicans in 1940 that he and Landon took in '36.

"Hell, no," Knox said. "I am cured. I am just going to run my newspaper and try to make some money. Whom do you think the Republicans will nominate?"

"That question sort of swelled me up, because, after all, Knox was a pretty high-ranking Republican and here he was, asking me,

"Well," I said, "I don't know much about the guy, but I have read a couple of speeches of his that sound very progressive and candid, and I think this Willkie might get a lot of votes."

"Willkie!" Knox yelled. "Why, he's a Democrat!" And I slunk out of there feeling that I had shown a lot of ignorance trying to be smart when I could have muttered a little double-talk about Dewey and Taft and left a fairly good impression.

During the Philadelphia convention I met Willkie for the only time that I have ever known him, and then only a quick howdy in a hotel room. I played a little poker with Landon and some other one night and take silly pride in reporting that, although he is supposed to be a good and a notorious sucker, he clipped him good on one pot, and at no time during the evening was anything said by any of those present, who surely should have known what was going on, which raised my suspicion of any monkey business.

I knew the Dewey people real well and had a lot of talks with them, and I put in one evening with Forrest Davis, who was turning the crank for Taft, and I tell you, there wasn't a whisper of anything peculiar.

One day Bob Allen had a story about Tom Lamont's having come to town, which was full of mysterious insinuation, but, after all, Lamont had been a banker, and Lamont had as much right as anyone else to attend the show. I remember that I thought that if a reporter had information about a deal he ought to lay it on the line. Allen laid nothing on the line.

We used to have gossip and rumors like that in the fight business, as when Max Schmeling was training for Stirlingover at Conneaut Lake, Ohio, and one day he was asked by a reporter what a gangster named Little Aug. and we all went into a huddle to try to figure out which way the fix was working. Or like the time in Chicago when Dempsey was training at the horse park for the second round fight and one evening, after most of the mob had gone back to town, Al Capone showed up accompanied by a member of the fight commission. I worked two days trying to find out what was cooking.

Well, of course, usually at conventions I pay no attention to the cheering because they night onto town the house for T. R. in 1912, but old Elihu Root would just grin a little and get on with the job. He would put a question and the "ayes" would come from the floor, but the "nays" would come booming from the gallery like an explosion, because T. R. had plenty of crowd appeal, but old Root would smack the block and say, "The ayes plainly have it." That was my first training, and I tried to obey my knowing in Philadelphia, but, naive or not, I really did believe that this time they were on the losing side and cheering the people's choice. I mean delegates, too. I felt in my bones that they were going to nominate Willkie.

Well, James called him Wall Street barefoot boy and the New Deal smear papers called him a mysterious reactionary picked by "the interests." More recently the Republicans have been disowning him as F. D. R.'s political tool, which he certainly has turned out to be, and now the Chicago Tribune calls him a Democratic Fifth Columnist who "bamboozled an ill-advised Republican convention and stole the party's nomination."

Well, as I say, Knox had him down as a Democrat, so the Tribune may be right, and all that ticks talk may have been mere sound effect. But you hate to believe that the opposition in our two-party system is so dumb that a total stranger, and an impostor at that, can crash the gate and steal the nomination as a gift. You wouldn't want to trust the country to such a party in war or peace. Some foreigner might move in and steal the country for them.

So I prefer to think they went for him because they liked his front and could see him polling a lot of votes, but without knowing him well enough. It is the old question of short engagements.

opened, the cost will be in similar proportion. We must pay the price of war's supreme god, Death.

What do any discomforts, or inconveniences, we suffer in these blessedly peaceful United States matter when we frankly look in the face of war and acknowledge that we must, we are willing to, pay the price.

In a corridor of The Constitution building which leads to the freight elevator hangs a large map. It was issued by the Hamburg-American steamship line. A German concern, but that has nothing to do with the case. It is a fairly accurate map of a large portion of the world and the continents and islands retain their original shape and locations. The names of the countries have undergone a number of changes.

It is a source of satisfaction to me to study that map. Because it advertises palatial steamer cruises to all parts of the world. Norway and Sweden and the Land of the Midnight Sun, to England and France and Germany, with side trips to the Alps; to the blue Mediterranean and the Riviera. To South American ports and the islands of the far Pacific. To countries whose names bring you the aroma of spices and exotic flowers. The steamer routes are as clearly defined as the map of the Southern Railway from here to Washington. But now they are just dotted lines on a map.

"See the world," invites a blurb in the lower left corner. "Bask in the sunshine of far beaches. Revel in the beauties of the Norwegian fjords. Visit the Latins of Central America. Summer cruises, Christmas cruises. Within reach of all."

"Within reach of all." None of these were ever in reach of me. Perhaps because I have short arms—or bank accounts. But I do enjoy looking at that map. Because the fellows I used to envy, who spent their summers in Europe and their winters in Bermuda have to stay at home, just as I do. That's my naturally mean disposition.

I trust The Constitution will treasure that map as it does some of the manuscripts of Henry W. Grady. If it were not so large I might steal it and hang it upon my library wall.

It is a picture of an era when all the world was free and open to everybody and nobody was fighting and everybody was glad to accept American cash.

I think that picture will be revived and restored some day—and the sooner the better. I'll probably not be able to travel further than Quitman, Ga., which is quite a fine terminal point. But a lot of folk will.

I do strive to keep good will in my soul and hatred out of it. But I would like some day to take an airplane sightseeing trip across the Pacific and hear the official barkers with his megaphone remark: "There, just below you, is what used to be Japan."

Bank Holidays
Atlanta banks observed Columbus Day last Monday, as a holiday. I think nobody else did, so far as shutting up shop was concerned.

The bankers, wisely, I think, desire to cut out a number of official "holidays" to which nobody pays attention. They'd like to stick, I understand, to Christmas and the Fourth of July and Thanksgiving and (I think) Labor Day. These are generally observed by cessation of business.

But the banks cannot, of their own volition, do business on even perfunctory "holidays," such as last Monday. Question of validity of financial transactions might some day be raised in the courts.

Such holidays are awkward for the businessman, who usually forgets a holiday is due and expects to make his usual deposit or attempt to put over a loan. They are inconvenient for the banks,

His new North Side News has been running eight weeks and Matt says it is breaking even. At least, he has been eating steadily three times a day. He thinks his new weekly will succeed his former weekly as the oracle of Buckhead and the surrounding territory—and so do a great many Buckhead business people.

Young Commandos
This American youth movement, by whatever name you may call it, threatens to become a Frankenstein's monster. It may be difficult to inspire patriotic enthusiasm in a 12-year-old—but try to curb it! I am thinking of this scrap gathering movement.

A fairly young mother of the Morningside region was talking on the bus, in the seat just ahead of me.

"Honestly, I dread to go home," she told her friend across the aisle. "I dreaded to leave home, but I had to see my dentist. I wonder whether when I reach home I'll find the furnace or the gas stove or either of the bathtubs."

"That son of mine and his gang have become so imbued with the holy fire of gathering scrap metal that we neighborhood mothers have had to mount guard over our household necessities. Already I have missed all the ironware off our backyard barbecue pit which my husband built with his own hands. And Mrs. Wilson, just around the corner, came home from a movie to discover her washing machine—six months old and just half paid for—had vanished."

Good Morning County Okays Equipment Sale To Government

By LOUIE D. NEWTON

A GLORIOUS DAY.
Last Saturday was a glorious day, as were all of the days of last week, after Monday's rain.

The day of Mrs. General George L. Carpenter's address at our church had many important tasks during the day, including a funeral, taking off two hens that had been faithfully hovering over the eggs that Dr. Rufus D. Hodges had sent me three weeks before, planting some more turnips, and so forth and so on.

But the feature of the day was Mrs. Carpenter's address on "Women and Today," at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. It was an impressive occasion, sponsored by the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Mildred Seydell, president, Mrs. John M. Slaton, president, Mrs. Arthur J. Moore, president, Mrs. Colonel E. C. Hoffman, led the responsive reading of the Scriptures. The Temple Chorus, Mrs. Major Ray Gearing, director, sang "Who is on the Lord's Side?" Mrs. Commissioner William C. Arnold presented Mrs. Carpenter, and Mrs. Brigadier Sidney E. Cox led the closing prayer.

Mrs. General Carpenter, as my reader must know, had come from London with her husband to Atlanta for a fortnight of important public meetings and numerous conferences with the territorial staff and workers of the Salvation Army in the 15 southern states and the District of Columbia.

There were two big public meetings—Saturday afternoon for the women, with Mrs. Carpenter as the speaker, and Sunday afternoon at the municipal auditorium with both the General and Mrs. Carpenter speaking.

"Womanhood's crowning achievement is motherhood," said Mrs. Carpenter. She recounted the many fields in which woman has excelled, but came back again and again to declare that woman must never forget her crowning mission—that of motherhood. She made a stirring appeal to the great audience of women to meet and master the tasks of these war-distracting days, as only women can meet them. Mrs. Carpenter is truly a great and good handmaiden of the Lord.

And when all the other tasks of the afternoon were performed, I went back again to the backyard to see the biddies, which I had taken off earlier in the day. The two mother hens were superb. They are so proud of their beautiful babies—their by right of having hatched them. I don't believe the question of which hen is the mother—the one that laid the egg, or the one that hatched the egg—has ever been finally settled. That doesn't bother me very much. These biddies are New Hampshire Reds, and are they pretty? Well, thanks again to Dr. Hodges, and thanks again to the good Lord for letting me share so many of the good things of this beautiful world. As I write this column, Junior, my canary, is singing his very best song. He, too, must understand that this has really been a glorious day. "Praise God from Whom all blessings flow." Selah.

Dr. Koo Will Confer With Allied Envoys
CHUNGKING, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, China's ambassador to Britain, arrived in Chungking today to take over the job of negotiating treaties giving effect to the recently announced decision of the United States and Britain to relinquish extraterritorial rights in China.

United States Ambassador Clarence E. Gauss and British Ambassador Sir Horace Seymour are expected to work out separate treaties with Koo.

Cold Storage Holdings Of Meats Show Decline
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Reflecting unusually heavy war demands, cold storage holdings of meats on October 1 were about 11 per cent below those of a year ago, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Stocks of lard were only 25 per cent of those held by meat packing plants and cold storage warehouses on October 1, 1941.

Meat stocks totalled 455,128,000 pounds compared with 512,402,000 pounds held a year ago.

Loss of Machinery To Reduce Personnel of Public Works

The Fulton county commission, at a special meeting yesterday, authorized the sale of the machinery and equipment of its public works department to the federal government.

Chairman Troy Chastain said that the government had asked for an inventory of all equipment. Lack of asphalt and the drop in the number of convicts, he added, would greatly reduce road and other construction in the county during the war. Sale of equipment, he continued, would bring about a reduction of personnel in the public works department.

The board appointed Chastain, Warden A. A. Clarke, and Dr. C. R. Adams, chairman of public works, who was absent, as a committee to negotiate with the government.

Clarke estimated that 12 or 15 men would have to be dismissed from the public works departments if the equipment is sold.

Included in the equipment to be offered to the government are 120 trucks, 20 tractors, 4 air compressors, four steam shovels, one drag line, 10 rollers, five asphalt distributors, one crane and five road patrols. The county will keep some of the equipment for essential work, Clarke said.

The board passed a resolution requesting the state to widen Northside drive, and the county attorney was instructed to urge the city to deal with a health menace at the end of McDaniel street, where Commissioner I. Gloer Hailey says a sewer overflows in rainy weather.

The board approved the appointment by Mayor W. B. Hartfield of Preston Arkwright as a member of the Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority, succeeding C. H. Van Ormer, resigned.

Key West Is Called 'Gibraltar of Caribbean'

KEY WEST, Fla., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Describing its island as the "Gibraltar of the Caribbean," the Key West Chamber of Commerce in a bulletin today outlined the city's housing limitations and invited regular tourists to vacation elsewhere in Florida for the duration.

The bulletin explained that Key West's population has almost trebled in a little more than a year and that, while OPA ceilings hold rents down to a normal level, accommodations are seldom available for any persons other than Army, Navy and construction personnel.

Collection of Tin Cans Quadrupled in 2 Months

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The War Production Board reported today that collections of prepared tin cans to provide tin and steel scrap for the war effort had quadrupled in the last two months.

In September, seven de-tinning plants reported receiving a total of 8,000 tons of prepared cans. This compared with 2,000 tons in July and 4,000 tons in August.

The tin can salvage program, launched in June in 36 metropolitan areas, has been expanded to include programs in all states except Idaho and the Dakotas.

Rename Another Cruiser, City of Quincy Asks Knox

QUINCY, Mass., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Declaring that this city "must always have a cruiser," Quincy, more than 30,000 shipyard workers today petitioned Secretary Knox to rename one of the cruisers now building as a replacement for the vessel sunk in the attack on the Solomons.

Following the pattern under which an airplane carrier was launched last month in world-record time after being renamed for the Lexington, hero ship of the Coral sea battle, the builders declared the revival of the name Quincy would "add great impetus to our production drive for ships."

Fund Appeal Units Formed, Drive Planned

City, State Officials Lay Groundwork for Intensive Campaign.

Two working divisions of the Community Fund Appeal completed preliminary organization yesterday and pointed toward intensive solicitation of more than 50,000 individuals to provide for Atlanta's wartime welfare needs.

The public employees' division, under Eric Cocke and Oscar Strauss Jr., met with 30 officials of city, county, state and federal governments and laid plans for an active part in the appeal.

The downtown division, headed by Dr. Pierce Harris, pastor of the First Methodist church, began recruiting several hundred volunteer workers. Dr. Harris will be assisted by J. W. Lea and T. R. Garlington.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of city schools, was one of the speakers at the first meeting of the public employees' group at the Chamber of Commerce.

"The school teachers are in close touch with the people of Atlanta," he said, "and we can testify, from actual experience, that the Community Fund agencies are more needed this year than ever before."

"Moral and character building services are essential to a strong community, and family life must be protected and strengthened in wartime. I am sure the schools, as always, will do their part."

Mayor Hartfield will head the solicitation among city employees, and Frank Fling and C. M. Paschall will direct the appeal among the county departments. Strauss will be in charge of the solicitation among the federal agencies, recruiting assistants to work with him. The state solicitation will be handled by John B. Wilson, secretary of state, and Horace Hixon, assistant state treasurer.

Mrs. Winant Returns From London on Visit
CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. John G. Winant, wife of the American ambassador to Great Britain, came home over the weekend from London, it was revealed today.

Mrs. Winant would make no comment on the war, and said she was home to visit. She left today for Boston to see her daughter, Mrs. Carlos de Velando, whose husband is at Harvard Law school.

CANADIAN VISITOR—Victor B. Harris, Canadian life insurance company official, was a visitor in Atlanta yesterday. He reports that the Canadian war effort is "coming along fine" and said the Canadian people are "very proud" of America's war record.

Canterbury Suits

THIS KIND OF QUALITY YOU'D NEVER EXPECT IN WARTIME!

Luxury is one of the first casualties in time of war—yet we are pleased to report that despite the war we are still able to offer our customers the epitome of luxury in gentlemen's suits: royal and renowned Canterburys, customized* expressly for us and you by

Two-fold is the supremacy of a Canterbury suit. It lies in the incomparable fineness, strength, and beauty of the imported cloths. Sally Spencer Is in Training For Role of Airline Hostess

• • • • • VIVACIOUS AND ATTRACTIVE Sally Spencer has gone into training for the role of airline hostess and expects to complete her course in about ten days. She is the daughter of Colonel Thomas C. Spencer, U. S. A., and Mrs. Spencer, who reside at Fort McPherson, and are prominent members of the military contingent. Blessed with magnetism, ability, and a great deal of savoir faire, Sally is well qualified to fill the position to which she aspires.

While at Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., from which she was graduated last June, Sally took a serious course in aviation, along with her academic and secretarial courses. She enters her third week of training with the Delta Air Lines this week, and to the graduate air hostess, before she becomes a full-fledged hostess in her own right.

As a popular and admired member of the Debutante Club of 1941-42, Sally was presented to society at a brilliant ball given by her parents at the Officers' Club at Fort McPherson last December. She remained in Atlanta during the Christmas holidays and was entertained extensively before resuming her studies at Stephens College.

Blond, diminutive, and personable, Sally radiates charm, is good-natured, and gives the impression that she assumes responsibility in all that she does. She was born at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis, Ind., and is the youngest child of Colonel and Mrs. Spencer. Her brothers are Captain Thomas K. Spencer, U. S. A., and Lieutenant Charles K. Spencer, U. S. A. Her only sister, Mrs. John F. Richardson, resides at Colorado Springs, Col.

• • • • • MEMORABILIA formed the highlight of entertainment at the party given Monday evening by Wright and Ellen Newell Bryan in celebration of their tenth wedding anniversary. Memorabilia, in case you are not familiar with the word, means "things worthy of remembrance or record." And in this instance, the "things" were old photographs, which Ellen conveniently displayed to advantage on curtains. The object was for the guests, who included the members of the Newell-Bryan wedding party and the hostess' sewing club, to name the various persons pictured.

Some of the photographs proved difficult to identify after the passage of years, for Ellen had chosen to exhibit pictures taken when she and others present were members of the first grade at Tenth Street school. The favorites, and ones which brought forth the greatest peals of laughter and "I don't believe it," were photographs taken of various wedding parties which included Ellen as an attendant. Since this is the symbol for the tenth anniversary, Ellen and Wright were showered with cans of tomatoes, kitchen gadgets, pin trays and toys. The "hit" present of the evening, however, was a xylophone on which Wright played the wedding march with fine technical skill before the evening was over.

Ellen and Wright not only supplied their guests with a new word for their vocabularies, but they also are responsible for a delightful occasion that will forever be remembered by those present as a perfect definition!

• • • • • SALLY TAKES keen pleasure in being able to give her readers a thumbnail preview of the "canning party" which will be pictured in an early issue of the magazine. The interest lies in the fact that the party was held in Decatur at the home of Dr. and Mrs. James Alsbrook and that everyone in attendance is well known locally.

Life's staff photographer flew down for the event, which began in the Alsbrooks' back yard early in the afternoon, "time out" being taken only for supper, which was served al fresco. The object of these canning parties is to conserve gasoline and tires and to take care of the youngsters collectively while preserving perishable foods. Group canning avoids using more than one automobile by the wives for purchasing the vegetables and fruits at "produce row." The recruited husbands don aprons and prepare the foods to be canned, while the wives look after the children and prepare the supper. Next morning, the wives, still using only one car, take the food to the community cannery, where they process and seal it.

Besides Dr. and Mrs. Alsbrook, others who will appear in the Life pictures are Julius McCurdy, president of the Decatur Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. McCurdy; Dr. Charles Schwob, of the Decatur Christian church, and Mrs. Schwob; Mrs. Chase Van Valkenburg, whose husband, Lieutenant Van Valkenburg, is on duty in the Pacific, and "Doc" and Catherine Allen.

The Younger Generation Prove They Can Take It

By Ida Jean Kain.

It's time we stop worrying about the younger generation and worry about the older one. The youngsters are away ahead in toughening up to stand the changes that are being made in our mode of living. They will be able to take whatever comes.

Just by way of illustration, let me tell you what the girls at an exclusive camp did last summer. You can be sure they paid enough not to have to work! But what did they do? They cleared between 40 and 50 trees off their camp site, chopped all the firewood they could use, and did the chores. Then, for fun, they would hike three miles back and forth to play golf. That same thing went on all over the country.

Miss Josephine Persicano, physical education expert in charge of one of the groups, is understandably proud of the promptness which the girls showed in going back to pioneering. All of them enjoyed the exercise. But the ones who had started out a trifle plump were delighted. They slimmed down without having to diet. That's how hard they worked!

The need for fitness is nothing new. It's having life suddenly become so much harder that makes us feel the need. Probably the quickest of all ways to get in trim is through outdoor work, and Miss Persicano, who trains the students at New York University who plan to teach physical education, tells me the outdoor work program will be stressed more and more.

Sports will be continued because, as she says, "In normal times, if a girl learns to do something she enjoys and to do it well, she can always be sure of getting enough exercise pleasantly." Besides that, sports are toughening. Sometimes as with swimming, a sport can be a life saver. Our boat disasters have shown how vitally important it is to be able to swim, and swimming is on the preferred sports list with girls as well as boys.

If you have a young daughter, swimming is about the best exercise you could encourage her to take. It will straighten out almost anything that might be wrong with her posture—and physical educators usually find that something is wrong, such as a high shoulder—and it will give her a good figure. Furthermore, it induces relaxation. It heads a list of archery, fencing and skiing as sports correctives for posture faults.

But don't get the idea that while such sports are fine for your daughter, it's too late for you to take any of them up. If you can manage to work at it two or three times a week, a sport is an excellent conditioner. You will benefit more from it than you would think possible. The youngsters are taking up this conditioning program young—enthusiasm—let's not lag too far behind them. We're going to have to take just as much as they ever will.

Send stamped return envelope for the "Streamline the Midsection" leaflet. These exercises are aimed at all the large, lazy, neglected muscles that control your figure in your fitness.

Victory Belles Dance At Melbourne, Australia
Victory belles is the name of the girls who are dancing partners for the troops in Sydney and Melbourne, Australia. The "belles" are between 16 and 30. They dance with the Army and Navy boys on Sunday nights and meet them at home at other times. The girls may not drink at the dance nor leave the hall during the evening with a member of the forces. They may be escorted home by bus, train or street car, but not by taxi.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:
March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—Be careful that you do not miscalculate or misjudge or overdo in financial transactions previous to 11:42 a. m., but if you will give your attention to a light vein, which involves your domestic and social happiness and some happiness may creep in to give you a feeling of repulsion. However, this is not lasting, for after 4:30 p. m. things should go right without much effort.
April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—Previous to 11:40 p. m. favors affairs in general. It is very important that a husband and a wife should be congenial, and I do not think that any couple can be really happy who do not have the same ideas on religion, on politics and who like the same kind of pie. The people who make friends are those who agree and not those who argue. I think in your case both of you could give up one of your pastimes, such as bowling or bridge, but when it comes to her liking to be alone and your liking people, I think that is a very different story. This is a chasm where a lot of love is needed as a span.

Number of Letters Is No Proof of Love

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

Four years ago I met him and have loved him ever since. All this time I thought that he thought a great deal of me, but now that he is in the Army he has cooled and does not seem to think as much of me as he did in the past. A few weeks ago he came back to town and came to see me but I was not at home. Do you think if he really loved me he would have written to me? He has asked me to wait for him to return from war to marry and in the meantime I have met another man who has been very nice to me and who has asked me to marry him at once. Must I marry him or wait for my ex-lover to return?

WORRIED.

The whole thing simmers down to one question: Which one of the two do you love? If you love the one in the Army by all means wait for him to come back, and if you feel that his love has really cooled and that he does not love you as he once did and this other man really loves you, then marry him. From your letter there does not seem to be any hurry to marry, so I think that because of the certainty of your love the best thing to do would be to wait. Remember that how much and how often a man writes to a girl is not always a proof of his love but it helps a great deal, so hold everything for awhile anyway. The man in the Army has asked you to marry him when the war is over, so what more proof of his love do you wish?

TWO HEARTS THAT BEAT ON DIFFERENT BEAMS

Dear Dixie:

I am engaged to a girl whom I love very much and she is a splendid person, but we never seem to agree on certain points. We are always fussing about these things and breaking up and then making up again. Of course, as it is now, we can break up and then go back together, but I am wondering what will happen if we marry. Do you think I should call it off and try to find someone else?

MY DAY: Some Thoughts On a Birthday

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Monday.—Yesterday afternoon I gave a small tea for Mrs. Edward J. Flynn, the wife of the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who was spending a few days here with her husband. I only asked a very few of her own friends, some of the women working in executive government positions, and the wives of government officials.

It was an interesting group and we very much enjoyed the opportunity of seeing each other and talking together. In these days, when there is so much less purely social activity, it is strange how much one values opportunities of this kind to see a few people one thinks about but rarely sees.

Last night I had a very pleasant, small birthday dinner. One can only hope as the years go on that they add wisdom. The great obligation of older people is to gain in the understanding of the world in which they live and to maintain a freedom from all types of fears to which youth is an easy prey.

Really to serve well, age should free one from false values. It should make it easy to cling to the essentials and to make one more aware of the joys of life, because the time is shorter and there is more urgency to live abundantly.

Lady Simon is coming to lunch with me today. She and her husband have been among the real adventurers in the housing field and she has been over here lecturing. I am most anxious to learn of her impressions in this country.

At the present moment, I am deeply concerned by the fact that here, in Washington, and in every other city where war industries have brought a great influx of people, that there are being created slums of a new kind. People are living under appalling conditions, not because they have no money, but because there are simply no decent accommodations for them. In practically every west coast city which I visited, these congested conditions existed. There were pictures in the Seattle, Wash., paper which showed distressing conditions.

Mr. Carl Sandburg pointed out in a recent article that slums create a problem for the community, and that the community pays a high price for allowing them to exist. This is one of our problems of which we are not aware at the present time. I am glad of the opportunity to talk to Lady Simon to find out what greater experience has taught Great Britain.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edythe Thomas Wallace

Mother: "How about letting Bill run to get the ball when you miss it, Jean? And you could miss it occasionally, couldn't you? Then he'd feel he had a part in your play."

Mother: "You must be nice to your little brother and let him play with you. Why does mother have to keep talking to you all the time about this? Mind me now, I don't want to hear any more quarreling."

Planning—with children accomplishes more than talking—at them does.

Frankenstein and the Wolf Man Combine in a Chiller Movie

By Louella O. Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13.—(INS) When I heard that Universal was combining their two favorite series characters—"The Wolf Man" and "Frankenstein"—in a chiller opus titled "The Wolf Man Meets Frankenstein," I could hardly keep my mind on the news for playing around with the idea. What an avenue of new plot ideas it opens up. How about "Kitty Foyle Meets Mr. Chips" or "Mrs. Miniver Catches Up With Sergeant York"? I also think "Rebecca Sees It Through With Yankee Doodle Dandy" has possibilities. But all kidding aside—let's get back to the authentic "U" idea.

The horror pictures from this studio have made money hand over fist. So much, in fact, that not long ago the profits were all written up in a national magazine. Combining the two characters in one opus should really add up to a financial plum. Lon Chaney Jr. will be the "Wolf Man" who meets Bela Lugosi, the "Frankenstein," with Ilona Massey as the girl. Roy William Neill directs for Produced George Waggoner.

There won't be a squawk out of Eddie Cantor on his movie "My Life Is in Your Hands," for it is the story of his own life. We said in this column months ago that Eddie's next for Warners would be a sort of autobiography, and it has taken the studio all these months to prepare the material. A very interesting biography appeared in one of the national magazines several years ago and this, of course, can be brought up to date.

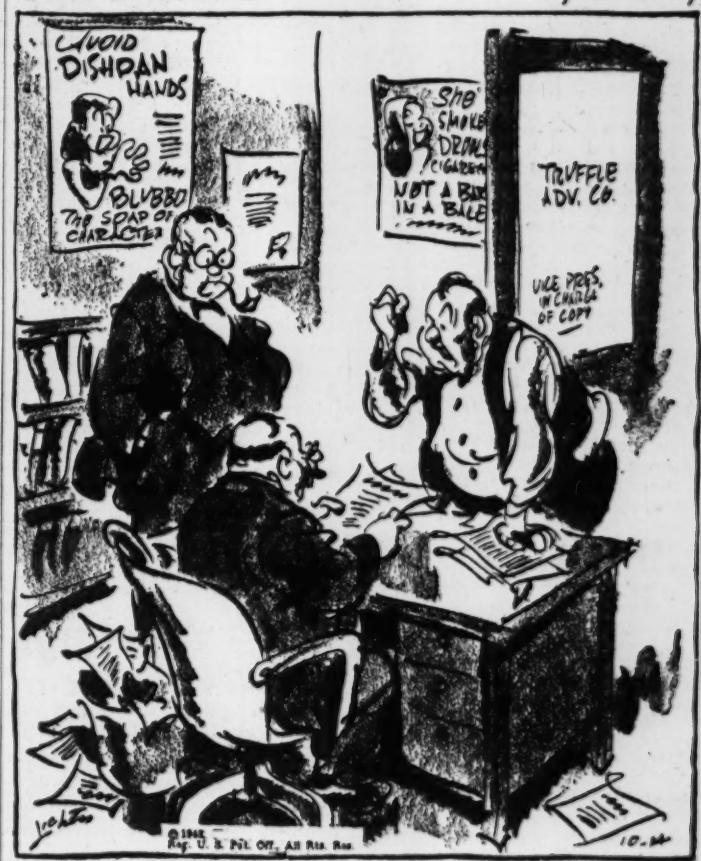

Pat Morison, who has nothing to do since she came back from London, except get her costumes for "Silver Skates" at Monogram and read the script of "Heart of a City," is trying to get herself on an overseas broadcast immediately. Pat wants to explain something to all the American boys she met over there. "They asked me to take the names and addresses and telephone numbers of their mothers and girls and give them a ring," explains Pat.

But the British censors had other ideas. When her papers were inspected before sailing she was told that numerals must be censored because they might be secret codes—so poor Pat had to stand by while all those numbers that meant so much to the boys were torn up.

Miss Gleason To Be Bride Of Mr. Kelley on October 16

Wide interest centers in the announcement made by Mrs. Martin Daniel Gleason of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Hazel Georgia Gleason, to James Henry Kelley, of Atlanta. The marriage will take place Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Glenn Memorial chapel, followed by a reception at the Druid Hills Golf Club. This date holds particular significance for the bride-elect, for it is the anniversary of the wedding day of her parents.

The future bride is the daughter of the late Martin Daniel Gleason, who during his lifetime was one of Atlanta's civic leaders, an active supporter in all campaigns for the growth and development of Atlanta, and prominent in both newspaper and fraternal fields. Miss Gleason is a graduate of the Sacred Heart school of Atlanta, later attending schools in Rochester, N. Y., the home of her maternal and paternal grandparents, who were long identified with the social and business life of that city. She is the sister of Mrs. Guy R. Wilby, of Atlanta, and her only brother is Frank Edward Gleason.

Mr. Kelley is the son of Mrs. O. G. Kelley and the late Dr. Kelley, who was a prominent Atlanta dentist. His maternal grandparents were Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Brantly, of Atlanta, and his paternal grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Kelley, founders of the historic Kelley's Chapel, located in the section southeast of Atlanta known as Kelleyville.

He attended the University School for Boys in Atlanta and later Georgia School of Technology. He now holds a responsible position with the Southern Railway in Atlanta.

The bride was given in marriage by her sister, Mrs. Louis C. Long, who was gowned in a black crepe model trimmed in tangerine and a black hat and accessories. Her flowers were purple orchids. The bride was gowned in a brown and blue crepe beaded in gold and worn with brown accessories and bronze orchids. Lieutenant Bruce Hollis Hale, of East Aurora, N. Y., a classmate of the groom at Craig Field, was best man.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Sohmer, the latter being gowned in a model of solid blue with blue accessories and her flowers were purple orchids. The late Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Eiseman were the bride's parents.

After the ceremony, Mrs. Long, the bride's sister, entertained at a breakfast for the bridal couple. The table was decorated with a tiered wedding cake flanked by bowls of white roses and dahlias.

Lieutenant Smith and his bride left for a wedding trip to Tallahassee, Fla., where they will reside during the former's duty with the Army Air Forces. The bride traveled in an English tweed suit and worn with matching accessories and orchids.

Among out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Sohmer, and Larry Schnitzer, of Forest Hills, Long Island; Mrs. L. C. Long, Mrs. Seymour Hirsch, Mrs. O. R. Strauss Sr., Misses Joan Strauss, Babette Ferst, Peggy Weil and Mrs. Sam Goldberg, all

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

Baseball's Part For various service funds, minor league baseball teams went to bat and contributed a total of $232,474.43 in 1942.

Among the funds were Army-Navy Relief, Red Cross, China Relief, USO, blood bank, bat and ball fund, American Legion smoke fund, etc.

The National Association lent further assistance by purchasing out of its reserve funds $150,000 maturity value government bonds.

Individual leagues made solid contributions to the war effort. The Southern Association bought a $10,000 bond, for example.

Wives of players on the Birmingham Barons sold $6,750 in bonds and stamps at Rickwood Field during June, July and August.

On July 21, the St. Paul (American Association) club, co-operating with local merchants in special admission prices, sold $111,030 in government bonds and defense stamps.

Listen to this—Montgomery (Southeastern League champion) sold $16,000 in defense stamps and itself gave away $2,100 in bonds during the season. Macon's Peaches held an auction for autographed baseballs and realized $19,172 for purchase of bonds and stamps. Houston, Texas League, sold more than $20,000 in bonds and stamps.

Thousands of dollars worth of bonds and stamps were sold here at Ponce de Leon and, in addition, each foul ball recovered by a fan was worth a certain amount in bonds or stamps upon return to the front office.

These are just a few of the things minor league baseball teams did last year to help in the prosecution of the war. Judge William G. Bramham lists them all in his annual report.

President Trammell Scott, of the Southern League, suggested it gives a rather pretty picture of minor league baseball's part in the war effort.

I'll say it does. Add the major league contributions, which run well over a million dollars, and a little person it is, indeed, who says baseball in wartime isn't worth while. And you can leave the entertainment side out of it.

Once Again Frankie Sinkwich got bashed in the nose again Saturday. He feinted into the line and a Rebel left him hold one. He dropped to his knees, stopped the flow of blood and continued play.

This is the third time since the season opened that Sinkwich has been the target for careless fists and knees. He was lucky not to be badly hurt when he was kneed on the opening kick-off against the Jacksonville Naval Air Station.

Then, against Furman, he was struck by a Purple Hurricane player who followed through with his elbow. Against Ole Miss he simply was hit by a straight right.

Little Monk Simons, in announcing Tulane was coming to Athens to take a poke at Sinkwich, probably didn't mean it literally. Another team doesn't reveal such an intention, for it merely causes officials to slap on penalties on the slightest provocation.

On the other hand, Georgia teammates and team supporters are fed up with the treatment Sinkwich is getting. It hasn't slowed him up a bit, and he hasn't complained about it.

It just isn't fair play and officials are out there to see that justice is done, supposedly.

Tennessee-and Points Out on Rose Bowl field before practice, Bobby Dodd was asked how he liked his old school, Tennessee, against Alabama Saturday at Legion Field, Birmingham.

"Well, if they were playing at Knoxville I'd like Tennessee pretty well. I can't recall when they've lost a home game. But in Birmingham, I don't know," Dodd said.

Coach Alexander spoke up: "Dodd's like a Tennessean on our squad, John Bell. He likes Tennessee, but he's got to have 12 points."

Dodd said he would settle for seven. "I kinda agree with Dodd's blue-plate special for the weekend—Notre Dame to upset Iowa Preflight. Bierman's team nosed out Minnesota by a point and remains unbeaten."

Notre Dame, tied by Wisconsin, beaten by Georgia Tech and winner over Stanford by a wide margin, probably is ready to shift into high gear this week.

Wave's Promise To Pop Sinkwich Stirs Georgia

Fast Improving Trippi Cheers Bulldog Fans

Ace Passer Expected To Team With Sinkwich in Wave Tilt.

By F. M. WILLIAMS.
ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 13.—Georgia's high-powered offense which in four games has rolled up more than 1,600 yards, will have to click perfectly Saturday against Tulane's powerful Green Wave if the Bulldogs expect to hang on to their undefeated record.

Coach Wallace Butts sent his charges through a 20-minute offensive scrimmage this afternoon to polish up some special plays and then worked two more hours on pass defense and on covering punts.

BUTTS PLEASED.
He was fairly well pleased with the drill, not because his boys did too well, but because they showed a fine spirit and were trying on every play. Charley Trippi, the sophomore tailback who personally accounted for 238 yards running and passing in the Mississippi game, looked good again.

Trippi's passing is improving so rapidly it is hard to believe. It is his improvement and Frankie Sinkwich's power that may eventually force Coach Butts to use his great ball-carriers in the same backfield most of the time.

Sinkwich, although he's never had credit for it, is one of the best blockers in the south and that is one of the big jobs a fullback has to do in the Butts' system. He is probably the best "inside tackle" runner in the business.

The way Coach Butts has figured out he is going to have to get his maximum strength on the field at the same time from here on out if he has a chance against the rest of the Bulldog foes.

And if that is to be done, Sinkwich will have to be at fullback and Trippi at tailback.

SAME LINEUP.
Coach Butts hasn't announced his starting lineup for the Tulane game, but it won't vary a great deal from that of last week. But don't be surprised, once the game gets underway, to see Trippi and Sinkwich out there at the same time.

Ticket sales for the Wave game are increasing every day, indicating that fans have suddenly realized the tussle is going to be one of the really great football dishes offered this week.

It is Georgia's second home game and the last this season. Georgia Tech comes here in November. Kickoff is at 3 o'clock.

MacPhail Quits As Director of Brooklyn Club

BROOKLYN, Oct. 13.—(P)—The Brooklyn baseball club announced today that Lieutenant Colonel L. S. (Larry) MacPhail had added his resignation as a member of the board of directors to his previous resignation as president and general manager of the Dodgers.

The following statement, telephoned by MacPhail from Washington, was released without comment:

"After I resigned as president I was asked by the board of directors to recommend plans, procedure and personnel for 1943. This I did.

"I also agreed at their request to continue temporarily, and without compensation of any kind, as a director. This I think was a mistake for many reasons.

"I have therefore asked that my resignation as a director be effective immediately."

Pels Obtain Two Toledo Players

TOLEDO, Oct. 13.—(P)—Infielder Lin Storti and Outfielder Beau Bell have been sold to the New Orleans club, of the Southern Association, President G. E. Gilliland, of the Toledo Mud Hens, announced today.

Storti played in the American Association for many years. At various times he was with the Milwaukee Brewers and Minneapolis Millers. Bell broke in as a major leaguer with the St. Louis Browns in 1935. Later he played with Detroit and Cleveland. He was purchased by the Mud Hens from Wilkes-Barre.

Browns Purchase Pelican Seinoth

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—(P)—Big Bill Seinoth, leading pitcher of the Southern Association, has been sold to the St. Louis Browns. Business manager Charles Hurth, of the New Orleans Pelicans, announced today. He did not reveal the amount involved in the cash sale.

Seinoth, who won 24 games during the season, missing a couple of no-hitters by narrow margins and getting away with one iron-man stunt when he beat Chattanooga a double-header, will report to the Browns in the spring. The lefthander is 24, married and has one child.

Tech Skirmish Reveals Alert Aerial Defense

Dodd, McEver, Ex-Tennessee Greats, To Be Re-united at Davidson-Jacket Clash.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
An alert pass defense, which led to numerous interceptions, featured Georgia Tech's opening scrimmage of the week yesterday as the undefeated Yellow Jackets started work in earnest for their game with Davidson here Saturday.

Working on both offense and defense, the varsity made up for a rather spotty blocking performance by smearing Davidson plays and passes as run by the Red Devil eleven. Eddie Prokop and Bobby Sheldon were the stars in the interception league while Jack Jordan, Mutt Manning and Harvey Hardy were the spearheads of a line which smeared almost all running plays by the Redbirds.

The Tech-Davidson game will bring together two old teammates, now coaching against each other. Gene McEver and Bobby Dodd each made the All-American team at Tennessee, but not in the same year, and the pass Dodd completed to McEver in the three years they played together. McEver is now head coach at Davidson while, of course, Dodd handles the backs at Tech.

McEver, however, doesn't use the Tennessee system of attack. Instead he employs about as much of an unbalanced line as possible, lining up five men on the right side of the center on most plays with his backs operating from a single wingback formation.

Tech and Davidson are no strangers to each other although it's been a long time since the two clubs have met on the gridiron. The teams started in 1900 and played off and on until 1922, with the Jackets winning eight times and Davidson three. There have been no ties and prospects for one are not very bright Saturday.

Five members of the Tech varsity watched yesterday's practice from the sidelines, four of them in civilian clothes. Bobby Dodd, Al Faulkner, Jack Hancock and Bill Healey are all suffering from "slight sprains," as Coach Alex put it, and didn't even dress. Jim Kuhn was in uniform, but without pads. He, too, is slightly injured.

Redlegs Return Aleno to Barons

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13.—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds announced today the release of Infielder Chuck Aleno and Catcher Ben Wade to Birmingham, Ala., of the Southern Association, and the transfer of Catcher John Bottarini, up from Syracuse, to Sacramento, in part-payment for the veteran Ray Mueller.

General Manager Warren Giles was in Chicago conferring with officials of the Cubs—a continuation of efforts of recent years to obtain a left-handed power hitter.

Trippi and King Make Yearling Team of Week

Two Tulane Sophomores Also Placed on Eleven Picked by Sports Scribes.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 13.—(P)—Walter (Squirrel) Simmons, Vanderbilt's little duck-legged scabbard, ripped off a 47-yard touchdown run Saturday to lick Kentucky, 7-6, thereby earning for himself a spot on the Southeastern Conference's freshman-sophomore team of the week.

Almost the goat of the game when he dropped a Kentucky punt deep in his own territory, the pesky, 145-pound speedster from Memphis more than redeemed himself with several other nifty runs, a 54-yard quick kick which caught Kentucky napping and a last-quarter pass interception that stifled a menacing Wildcat rally.

Except in one vital spot, the center position, sophomore and freshman stars were a dime a dozen over the week end. Associated Press sportswriters nominated no less than 18 backs and 15 linemen for the soph-frosh team of the week—but didn't cite a single center for outstanding work.

DARK PLACES.
Running with the sawed-off Simmons in the backfield are Charley Trippi, Georgia's understudy to All-American Frankie Sinkwich, L. S. U.'s Alvin Dark and Mississippi's Charley Conerly.

Trippi, sophomore upstart, came very near stealing Sinkwich's thunder as the Bulldogs plowed under Ole Miss. The Wilkes-Barre, Pa. boy amassed 133 yards in 13 jaunts with the ball, completed five of eight passes for 125 yards and scored one touchdown.

Dark, like Trippi, a repeater on the team, passed for both L. S. U. touchdowns in the Tigers' win over Mississippi State. He also intercepted two passes to throttle State threats and punted beautifully.

Given the day's toughest assignment—earning a starting role with a Sinkwich-Trippi act on the other side of the line—Conerly acquitted himself admirably. The 175-pound youngster from Clarksville, Miss., was spectacular on both offense and defense and capped his act with an 80-yard punt return for one of Ole Miss' two touchdowns.

Competition for backfield berths was the keenest of the season. Tennessee and Georgia Tech stars twinkled again but the caliber of the opposition, Dayton and Chattanooga, didn't supply the proper yardstick for measuring their feats.

FOR THE LINE:

PORTER IS POWER.
The line, sans center, includes two Tulane sophs, Guard Darwood Holm and End Arthur (Moose) Porter. Lafayette King, of Georgia, holds down the other end post, Wren Worley, of L. S. U., the other guard spot and James Compton, of Alabama, and Bill Griffin, of Kentucky, tie the tackle positions. Worley and King are the team's only freshmen.

Porter was especially impressive. A power on defense, he also supplied the most spectacular play of the Rice-Tulane game, catching a pass on the Rice 43 and racing for a touchdown after shaking off two tacklers and outdistancing the others.

Students Gird For Action After Simons Remark

Tulane Coach's Statement Taken Literally on Athens Campers.

By ROMNEY WHEELER.
ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 13.—(P)—Little Monk Simons, Tulane's youthful football coach, is a good-natured guy, but he has just stirred up more bees than a bear in a honey tree.

Simons probably was using just a figure of speech when he promised: "My boys are going into All-American Frankie's yard with the idea of taking a pop at him."

Most observers gathered that Tulane intended to deflate fireball Frankie, but super-heated Sinkwich supporters in the University of Georgia student body took him very literally. They began hunting ancestral feudin' pistols in defense of Sinky, lest anyone seek to rough him outside the rules.

It was just a year ago—October 4 at Athens, to be exact—that an enthusiastic South Carolina football team undertook to stop Sinkwich, and sent him to the sidelines with a jaw broken in three places. The recollection still is fresh here, and Georgia fans are not happy about it.

Rotund Wally Butts, Georgia's coach, kept strictly neutral. "I just don't want to make any comment," he said. "I haven't got a thing to say."

But he did have a bit to say about Tulane's spectacular football team—and all complimentary. "We'll be playing a great team," said the line the blind man, whose Bulldogs currently are rated No. 2 in the nation. "We'll be playing the greatest offensive team we have to face all season, and one that's entirely capable of beating us. Lou Thomas is one of the best backs in the country."

Even Georgia's great performance against Mississippi last Saturday failed to cheer the dour little man. Georgia won, 48-13, but Butts said:

"Football teams never play like that every week. We were playing at our peak. Now it's a question whether we can hold the boys there."

To Georgia partisans, that seemed academic. They thought Mr. Simons had done that very effectively by remote control.

Monk Simons Amused At Interpretation

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—(P)—Coach Monk Simons, of Tulane University, was amused today at the interpretation someone had given his statement here that Tulane's football team would take a "pop" at Fireball Frankie Sinkwich in his own backyard at Athens Saturday.

"Maybe the definition for 'pop' and mine is different," the Tulane head coach said. "Mine means a legitimate, enthusiastic effort to stop him. And by my definition we're still going to take a pop at him."

"Football teams never play like that every week. We were playing at our peak. Now it's a question whether we can hold the boys there."

Vols Will Test Alabama

Decisive Win Would Place Tide in Front

Sellout Crowd of 24,000 Expected for Clash of Perennial Titans.

By DICK HAWKINS.

Associated Press Writer.

Railbirds who have their money down on the Crimson Tide of Alabama in the Southeastern sweepstakes need wait no longer than Saturday to see the real stride of their favorite.

Tennessee meets the Tide in Birmingham in what promises to be a true test of the big Crimson Tide, notoriously slow starters, were prematurely checked off the list by many observers. Each succeeding Saturday has added something to their stature and a crushing defeat of Fordham gave warning of things to come.

Alabama's first major foe, Mississippi, took a sound licking and the Tide went on to whip a strong Pensacola Naval Air Base team last week, 27-0. If they can send the Vols down by a decisive score you can just about bet that any team aspiring to the conference championship will have at least one really tough hurdle on the track. As the count stands today, Alabama is the team to beat.

SELLOUT CROWD

A sellout crowd of 24,000 fans is expected at Birmingham and the game will be broadcast over a national hookup, also to Canada, Alaska, South America and short-wave to England.

Coach Frank Thomas brought his squad through the naval base without serious injury to any player but the stocky Tide boss has no illusions about the Saturday scrap. He said of the game, "We will have to play by far our best game of the year to beat Tennessee. Our scouts report that the Vols have a great outfit this year and from past experience with Tennessee teams, I know what a great Tennessee eleven can do."

At Knoxville, Coach John Barnhill prepared his charges for the trip with the avowed idea that the Vols were headed for disaster in the Steel City. He said, "Alabama is a two-touchdown favorite to beat us Saturday in Birmingham. Any team that can trounce Mississippi State with three touchdowns is a humdinger. Their players are a seasoned reserve along with the starting eleven make them decided favorites. I'm afraid we're in for it."

The Vols leave for Birmingham by day coach Friday morning at 6:30 and arrive about noon in time for a workout.

Except for Charlie Mitchell, varsity quarterback, who has an ailing foot, the Vol squad will be in excellent condition, barring practice injuries this week.

L. S. U. VS. REBELS.

Fresh from a convincing win over Mississippi State, the L. S. U. Tigers engage the battered Ole Miss Rebels at Baton Rouge. All the odds give the Tigers a decided edge in the counter but Coach Bernie Moore may have keyed the performance when he said, "Ole Miss has always been one of L. S. U.'s toughest foes. Even back in the days when we thought we were better, we had a hard time beating them. I expect a very close ball game."

A Georgia team that did everything right and did it more than once, made the Rebels look very bad on the small end of a 48-13 massacre last Saturday. Undoubtedly Coach Harry Mehre hasn't the best team he ever coached at Ole Miss but there is certain to be a rebound this week.

The Rebel mentor refuses to make any predictions but his outlook since last week's victory is bright. You can make one sure bet: The Rebels are working this week.

Kirkwood Eleven Whips Grant Park

The Kirkwood Tigers, state sandlot champions for the past three years, defeated Grant Park by a 7-0 score in their last start and are now looking for new opponents to fill out their 1942 schedule.

The Tigers defeated Buford for the title last fall.

Any team averaging 150 pounds will be welcomed as opponents. Games may be arranged by calling Billy Miller at DE. 0659.

Basketball Loop To Be Organized

The Walthour City Basketball League, which last year was dominated by the fine play of Johnny Moon's Central Cafe quintet, will be organized again this year as a six-team loop.

Any Class A team interested in entering this league is requested to contact Wingfield Short at Main 7137.

Louis Will Fight Again-If, When

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—(AP)

Sergeant Joe Louis flew into town today from Fort Riley, Kan., to visit his family and emphasized that "the old fighter" I'm thinkin' about right now is in the Army.

"If and when I'm mustered out, then maybe I'll think about boxing." There'll be plenty of time then.

He assured he'd continue boxing because "I'm only 28. I'm not gonna quit."

Louis told the Associated Press in Omaha Sunday his fighting days were over.

Notes From S. E. C. Grid Camps

TIDE IN ROUGH DRILL

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Alabama Crimson Tide engaged in a stiff scrimmage with reserves today and Coach Frank Thomas, for the second straight day, described the Varsity's performance as unimpressive.

Guard George Hecht, the Tide's place-kicking specialist, and Captain Joe Donnanovich, ace pivot man, were held out of rough work because of injuries, but both are expected to see action against Tennessee at Birmingham Saturday.

Another cripple, Dave Brown, veteran right half with hurt in pre-season practice, had the cast removed from his bad knee today. Tide trainers said, however, that his leg was still stiff and it is doubtful he will play this weekend.

NASHVILLE POLISHES PASSING

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Vanderbilt Commodore football team was polished today by Coach Red Sanders, who armed his men with slick, deceptive plays designed to move the Mississippi State Maroon hulk out of the way Saturday night in the Navy field.

Cowdrey was not running over Mississippi State, Sanders said. "They're too big. So we'll have to try to pass over them or pull down their guard for a sneak punch."

"I'm not worried about our scoring," he continued. "I think our team can score against anybody. What I'm worried about is getting a knee injury and a speedy half-carriers room to be wide-open, high-scoring game."

PENSACOLA OVERHAULED

PENSACOLA, Fla., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Pensacola Naval Air Base team was getting a thorough going over by Coach Polk Clark in preparation for Saturday's game here against the powerful Tide.

Clark said he will devote most of his attention to the defense which dropped in last week's 27-0 defeat administered by Alabama's big Crimson Tide.

Particular attention will be paid to the line which got caught in the Alabama despite the presence of a number of former college and professional stars in the Navy field.

TARHEELS WON'T PLAY

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Prospects virtually disappeared today that the Tar Heels will play in the game scheduled for Saturday to replace the cancelled game with Rice Institute.

The Jacksonville Naval Air Base, which was scheduled to play the Tar Heels, was unable to obtain a travel permit.

CATS DRILL FOR TECH.

DAVIDSON, N. C., Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Davidson Wildcats football team was drilled today by Coach J. H. Davidson, who was unable to start in the game scheduled for Saturday to replace the cancelled game with Rice Institute.

Herb Rainey and Bill Shaw, injured tacklers, have been replaced by Price Gwynn and Bob McMillan.

Morehouse Preps For Wolverines

Two bitter traditional city rivals clashed this week in the football battle of Morris Brown and Morehouse College take the field Saturday, in a game that will have direct bearing on the city's Negro championship.

Morehouse returned from a hard game with Southern California State College in Orangeburg where they dropped the contest to the Bulldogs by their inability to convert the extra point. The coaching staff of the Maroon Tigers are mapping out a defense they expect to stop the semi-weekly Arkansas Traveler, student publication, commented in the daily paper that the game looked like a contest for the conference cellar.

Wimberly said about 30 members of the squad participated in the "hag" but added that he did not intend to press charges.

"I just hope they show the same determination of attack in their gridiron battle against the Texas Longhorns this week," he grinned.

Colonel Nelson Found Dead in DeKalb Home

Automotive Officer Was Veteran of 37 Years in Army.

Colonel John A. Nelson, 62, automotive officer for the Fourth Service Command and a veteran of 37 years' continuous service in the Army, was found dead yesterday in his home at 1933 North Decatur road, the DeKalb county police reported.

The body was discovered at around 11 o'clock yesterday morning by Captain Stark A. Sutton, a member of the Fourth Service Command automotive staff, according to Captain E. L. Foster, of the DeKalb police.

Colonel Nelson, who rode into the city each day with Colonel Nelson, told Captain Foster he entered the Nelson home through a window when the colonel went to respond to knocks at the door. He said he found the body lying on the floor between the bedroom and bathroom.

Private in Hospital

A private physician and Captain Joseph H. Patterson, of the Army Medical Corps, called by Captain Sutton, said Colonel Nelson eventually had been dead for several hours, apparently suffering a heart attack.

Colonel Nelson was dressed in pajamas, but was wearing his glasses, Captain Foster said.

Mrs. Nelson, the former Mrs. Lillian Fuller, of Watertown, N. Y., was ill at Lawson General hospital and the time she was informed of her husband's death. Army officers said they would tell Mrs. Nelson of the tragedy "as soon as doctors deem it advisable."

The Nelsons' only son, Lieutenant John A. Nelson Jr., is stationed overseas with the United States Army Air Corps.

DeKalb Coroner Paul Estes immediately called for an inquest.

A native of Duluth, Minn., Colonel Nelson enlisted in the Army June 5, 1905, and had seen service with the cavalry, the infantry and quartermaster corps. During World War I he was stationed at an east coast army depot as officer in charge of the supply division of the Army transport service and chief of the Effects Bureau.

For six years after the war he was stationed at Detroit, Mich., as officer in charge of procurement, planning or the motor vehicle section.

Colonel Nelson came to Atlanta as chief of the automotive section of the Fourth Service Command on December 9, 1941. He was retired June 30, 1942, and recalled to active duty as automotive officer last July 7.

His Army career also included two tours of duty in Philippine islands. He participated in the Louisiana and Carolina maneuvers.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Henry M. Blanchard.

Four Officers Are Advanced By C. & S. Bank

Collective Banking Experience of Group Totals 75 Years.

Four officers of the Citizens & Southern National Bank in Atlanta, whose collective banking experience totals nearly 75 years, were advanced in rank yesterday—one to a vice presidency and three to the rank of assistant vice president. The announcement was made by H. Lane Young, president of the Citizens & Southern following a meeting of the directors.

The new vice president is Lewis F. Gordon, public relations executive of the Citizens & Southern System. Mr. Gordon came to the bank 10 years ago from the publishing field. During that period he has become widely known in banking circles and is a vice president of the Financial Advertisers' Association, the national organization of bank public relations, new business, and advertising men. He is well known locally for his civic activities and has held office in many Atlanta organizations, among them the Boy Scouts, of which he is now vice president; the Advertising Club, the Atlanta Sales Executives Club, the Chamber of Commerce and the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Thomas A. Moye.

Thomas Alvin Moye, newly elected assistant vice president, was born in Monroe county. He is a graduate in commerce from Georgia Tech. He began his banking career with the Federal Reserve Bank in 1918 and a year later joined the Central Bank & Trust Corporation which was subsequently merged with the Citizens & Southern. In the years following he served in various capacities, finally becoming a special representative in the bank division. As such he is widely known to banks throughout the Sixth Federal Reserve District.

Moye has been extremely active in civic and religious circles in Atlanta. He has served as director and chairman of committees in the Junior Chamber of Commerce, as vice president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, as an elder and superintendent of the Bible School of the First Christian church. He also was president of the Inter-City Civitan Club in 1935-36. He is a member of East Point Lodge No. 228, F. & A. M., and the Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity.

Vann Groover.

Vann Groover, now assistant vice president, was born in Quitman, Ga. He left the University of Georgia just before the close of his senior year in 1917 to enter the army in World War I. He also is a graduate of the Atlanta Law School and the American Institute of Banking. At the close of the war, Groover returned to work with the First National Bank of Quitman. In 1923, he joined the Citizens & Southern in Atlanta, and after serving in various capacities was elected an officer in 1934. He is a former president and now an instructor in the Atlanta chapter, American Institute of Banking and a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Carlton L. Sharp, the third of the newly advanced assistant vice presidents, was born in Conyers, Ga. His early business experience was in the cotton oil industry and in 1922 he joined the Central Bank & Trust Corporation. In 1925, after this bank had become part of the Citizens & Southern, he was elected an officer attached to the Mitchell Street office. In 1936 he was transferred to the main office with the title of assistant cashier in charge of the personal loan department of the bank.

AUXILIARY TO MEET.

Lee Roosevelt Auxiliary of the Spanish War Veterans will hold a special call meeting at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow at the Red Men's Wigwam to greet the national president, Mrs. Ethel Cummings.

Byrnes Moves To Control All Rents in Nation

House Receives Bill Stabilizing Prices at September Mark.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, today moved to control rents on all real property throughout the nation, commercial as well as residential.

At his request, Representative Steagall, Democrat, Alabama, introduced a bill authorizing the stabilization of all rents, thus supplementing existing law, which authorizes only the control of rents for housing in defense areas.

Byrnes, in a statement issued through the White House, said he had received reports from many states that landlords were demanding increased rentals for grocery stores, restaurants and other properties. Some of these increases, he said, would amount to over 100 per cent and would add greatly to the cost of living.

The Steagall bill mentions September 15 rentals as the basis for stabilization, but would give the President, acting through Byrnes, wide powers to depart from the norm.

Sweeping steps have already been taken toward control of residential rents throughout the nation, which has been designated as one great defense area.

War Office Workers Paid More Than Army

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Representative Colmer, Democrat, Mississippi, said today that the War Department has 1,100,000 civilian employees whose pay roll exceeded that of the entire Army.

He made the statement as the House Rules Committee, of which he is a member, considered a request by Chairman Ramspeck, Democrat, Georgia, of the civil service committee for an investigation of civilian employment in the government. The hearing will continue tomorrow.

OPA Tightens Down on Extra Gasoline Ration

Program Indicative of Future Policy, Officials Report.

Reporting a "clamp down" on supplemental gasoline allotments for presently rationed motorists, regional OPA officials yesterday cited this as an indication of the policy to be followed in the program to keep all passenger cars rolling but limited to essential mileage.

Harry Sommers, regional rationing executive, said local boards throughout the five southeastern states now rationed had virtually completed a review of all "C" books issued when the present program started, recalling those obtained by mistake or misrepresentation.

Now, he said, the boards are further reducing the number of holders of these largest supplemental rations by closer check on renewals, which are due October 22.

He said complete reports have not yet been received, but cited as an example the rejection of 25 per cent of the renewal applications filed with local boards here.

Sommers emphasized that success of OPA's undertaking to provide new, used or recap tires for all cars through a plan going into effect with nationwide gasoline rationing November 22 hinges largely on preventing unnecessary driving by control of gasoline consumption.

COURSE IN DECORATION.

Night course in interior decoration will start at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Opportunity school. Miss Minna Beck will conduct the classes which will include illustrated lectures on the study of fabrics, color scheme, period furniture, room arrangement and modern design.

Army Needs Vans, Trucks, Tractors

Owners of used haulaway truck tractors and trailers for vans yesterday were appealed to by the War Production Board to sell their equipment for use in transporting southern war workers to and from war plants in this area.

Hugh Wall, of the regional WPB office, pointed out that buses are out of the picture, and that an Army procurement agency in this region urgently needs 300 high-way monsters to transport southern manpower.

The vans will be equipped with windows and seats, like buses, he said.

240 Million Gallons Seen As '43 Distillery Output

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The nation's distilled spirits industry, which no longer may produce beverages, is expected to turn out 240,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol in 1943, WPB estimated today.

The estimate was in connection with an order formalizing conversion of the industry to the manu-

Carrollton Fetes Arnall and Atkinson

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. CARROLLTON, Ga., Oct. 13.—The three Boykin brothers, B. F., S. C. and Samuel J., all attorneys and members of the Coweta circuit and also the Carrollton Bar Association, aided by the Carrollton Bar Association, last night entertained at a banquet honoring Ellis Arnall, Democratic nominee for Governor, and William Y. Atkinson, nominee to fill the term of Justice Samuel C. Atkinson, deceased, of the supreme court.

Members of the Coweta Bar Association also were guests.

There were assembled attorneys, members of the various counties of the circuit, with visitors from Atlanta and other points, many being drawn here by the county court session which opens Monday.

Willis Smith, one of Carroll's representatives in the general assembly, presided over the meeting. The Rev. Zach C. Hays Jr. said the grace at the meal, after which an official welcome was extended the guests by Mayor Lawler and the presiding officer, Mr. Smith.

B. F. Boykin was introduced and called upon by a number of visitors and local members, all of whom in brief talks expressed sincere and hopeful expressions of confidence and esteem for the two nominees, Arnall for Governor and Atkinson for supreme court. Speakers were Judge L. B. Wyatt, of the Coweta circuit; Hatton Lovejoy, of LaGrange; Henry Revell, of Merwether; Jack Allen, of Greenville; Stonewall Dyer, of Coweta.

Judge Sam Boykin introduced Mr. Arnall, who briefly expressed his thanks and appreciation for the honor of the occasion and his determination to carry out the pledges of the campaign and platform adopted by the convention, asking the united support of the people in doing so.

Mr. Atkinson followed with warmest expression of appreciation for the many kindnesses extended him during his long services of more than 20 years as solicitor general of the Coweta circuit, as well as for the great honor, unsolicited, which had been with such unusual and generous unanimity bestowed upon him in making him the nominee of the party for the supreme court, promising to make the very best justice that he could.

There were some 65 people present, and included in the number were two of Carrollton's oldest lawyers, J. J. Thomasson and L. K. Smith. All members of the Carrollton Bar were present.

Trucks Must Haul Munitions... And Deliver Atlanta's Milk

TRUCK LINES operating in Georgia today provide an example of the everlasting teamwork which has created the American way of life.

At least 60 per cent of the for-hire truck mileage is today devoted to the war effort—but the vital needs of those on the home front must still be supplied.

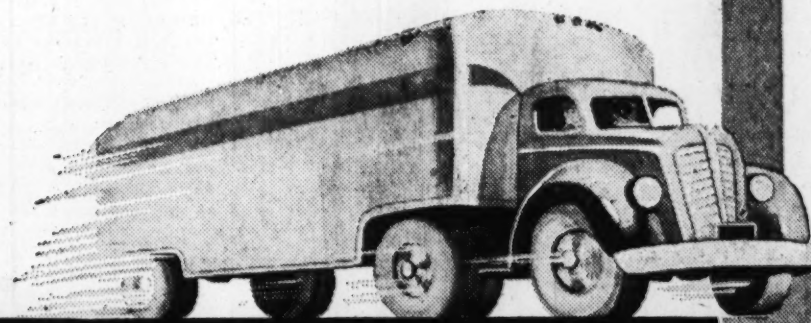

At least 98 per cent of Atlanta's milk supply, for example, necessary to young and old, is hauled into the city by truck. And it is hauled on highways whose construction was assisted by taxes paid by trucks.

When the war emergency arose, the truck lines were a ready-made auxiliary to speed war production and now, by their everlasting teamwork, they are doing double duty. In time of war, a truck is more than a private investment. As a part of a vital transportation system it is a public responsibility.
